LORD WILLINGDON'S ADDRESS

It is always with a feeling that it is the wrong person speaking that we heard advice from British Governors to this country giving The party will proceed to Ketchikan and advice in regard to loyalty to the Empire. In his address yesterday Lord Willingdon urged teachers to impress children with the neces- the way south. sity for maintaining and upbuilding the British Empire. Lord | Cars in which the girls and boys | Minto, when here, went about urging Canadians to "keep both were driven around the city were loaned hands on the Union Jack."

It seems to us that it is only within the past few years that bury and Mrs. S. E. Parker. the people of Great Britain have been loyal to the Empire idea. Prior to that they were inclined to say "we are the Empire." When they needed lumber products they bought them in Washington and Oregon states instead of in British Columbia and it was only the persistent challenge of men like Sir Richard McBride and the present agent-general, F. A. Pauline, that induced them to specify British | # Columbia lumber for public work in Britain. This is simply one of THE most difficult thing in the world the many instances where it can be shown that Canada was the is keeping out of debt. It's closest rival leader in the Empire idea and has had to teach it to people from in the matter of difficulty is spending Great Britain.

The old idea was that loyalty meant loyalty to Britain. Loyalty. IF all the seeds purchased in the to a Canadian, means nothing of the sort. It means loyalty to the spring were to germinate and bring great commonwealth of nations with each part functioning in its forth a crop, it is feared that we should own way and doing its part for the common good. The difficulty have to initiate a "keep down producoften has been that Britain was not loyal to that idea. However, of tion week." late the people of that country have come to realize what we for many years have realized. We had to go there and teach them what IT's difficult to be happy and not loyalty meant and now they come and give us gratuitous advice. Possibly we might send missionaries to preach to the school teacher of England and Scotland and urge loyalty to the Empire.

NOW FOR CANADIANS

But now for Canadians. They, too, have a lot to learn. They are usually inclined to sit back and let the rest of the Empire do things. They allow Great Britain to pay the whole cost of defending the Empire with the exception of a little done by New Zealand and Australia. In that we are sadly lacking. If we were a part of THERE are a lot of things it is posthe United States we should have to pay our share of the upkeep of sible to buy. One is that benevolent a great navy and a large army. If we were an independent unit we feeling which comes of giving a dollar should have to take some steps to make ourselves felt as a power. Why not?

VALUE FOR MONEY

In glancing at some of the little jabs written by our old friend strangers for help when you are up "The Man in the Moon," it is noticed that he refers to the difficulty against it. of getting value for money. While a great many people find it difficult to earn, others find it equally difficult to spend so as to get value for the money expended.

Take this personally. A man wants a suit of clothes. He goes to a store and the clerk persuades him into buying something that does not fit and of a color that is unsuitable. When he goes out in company later he realizes his mistake. He had not received value for his money.

Those who sell are anxious to get the dollars and they often sell things which the customer does not like. The result is that next time the purchases are made elsewhere. It is difficult to get lady get full value for the expenditures made.

So in public life. People engage in charitable work or try to do things that will benefit the public. The money they raise daddy will go out with me sometimes. sometimes does more harm than good. The result is that value for the expenditure is not received. Learning to spend is just as important as learning to earn. Training in both are badly needed.
