Fish Industry Of the Port.

"We may live without luxuries, most of us have to these days, but food is an item without which we may not exist," said the American Consul at the Board of Trade luncheon recently. No form of food is more sustaining and attractive in the main than good fish. And in all this wide world there is probably no more prolific fishing ground than this section of the Pacific Ocean. Do you appreciate its importance? Do you realize the consideration this interest deserves, I wonder?

"Now of course it is understood that you are not at liberty to criticise my views as to the best means of putting this city on the map permanently, and I am using my best efforts so that if I fail it is my misfortune but not my fault. Get me?"

"In the month of May nearly one hundred carloads of fresh fish were shipped from this port to eastern points. That is a very big item of trade. No trivial details should be permitted to hamper the development of this trade to its fullest extent."

Shipping Prospects For Prince Rupert.

"Until a line of shipping is established there can be no real development as a port of magnitude. During the war there was such a dearth of vessels that little or no consideration could be given ordinary commerce. The needs of the armies of the Allies and the necessity of supplying food to their civilian population was the first consideration. Now, however, things are rapidly changing, ships are being returned to their usual line of commerce and new ships being constructed for the world's requirements. Let us venture to hope that this port will receive the attention which its strategic position seems to warrant. Gentlemen who should be in a position to know have stated that cargoes could be found if the ships were available. It is the duty of Prince Rupert citizens to keep harping on the one string until the ships are secured."

Lost Marketing Of much Halibut.

Prince Rupert lost the marketing of at least three million pounds of halibut as a result of the strike. Much of the money received for that catch would have been spent here under normal circumstances. As it was, scarcely any of it came here. It went to Ketchikan, Seattle and Vancouver, while some of it was never realized because the fishing boats tied up. That is one of the penalties of the present method of dealing with labor disputes. The fishpackers at Vancouver remained at work throughout and at Victoria none but the longshoremen were out more than a few days. The men there suffered little loss. Here many have been set back more than a year and even then will not have recovered the lost ground.

Eastern Prices on Community Silver

We just received a copy of the Robert Simpson Co. catalogue and find that our prices on Community Silver are exactly the same as theirs. We mention this as proof that we are trying to give our customers as good service as they can get anywhere.

Other things we can prove it by are Big Ben clocks, Waltham and other watches, Waterman pens, Rogers silver and almost any well known article.
