Rogers Hornsby is one of the greatest batters of all time. The punch he added to the Cubs' offense and the steadiness he gave to the infield were two big contributions to the Cubs' 1929 pennant, Joe McCarthy, a great manager, proved he was right, when he told Owner Wrigley. "Get me Hornsby and I will win you a pennant." Hornsby, by his fine behavior, has disproved the belief of many that he is a bad actor and would upset the discipline of the Cubs. Slowed up a trifle. Hornsby doesn't cover as much territory as he once did. However, he has lost none of his cunning at the bat. Throughout the entire season he has batted .350 or better. He feels that this nlavor and save the Cubs are sure winners. That doesn't moon a thing, though, unless he picks 'em better on the diamond than he ever did at the track.
