The dairy industry, attentive readers will at once reca'l, is the industry which, if Mr. Bennett is to be believed, which the whale is going, so as to has been ruined by the treaties with New Zealand and Australia. The admission of butter from these dominions at low tariff rates, according to the Conservative leader, has made it unprofitable for Canadian farmers to make butter and driven them out of the dairy business.

The statistics for Saskatchewan show what nonsense bursts, which usually kills it, and this is. In this province the dairy branch of agriculture is flourishing and growing.—Winnipeg Free Press.
