Healthy Outdoor Sport is Needed.

The one thing that Prince Rupert has needed for a long time past has been more healthy outdoor sport. To tell the people they must not gamble, they must not loaf, they must not do a hundred and one other things is useless unless a substitute is provided.

A group of local men get together and try to arrange for baseball. In order to insure the visit of outside teams it is necessary to play two games and one of these has been arranged for Sunday. Then the authorities step in and say they must not play the game on Sunday afternoon. It does not interfere with going to church, neither does it interfere with the peace of mind of anyone. It is far enough away from the houses for the cheering to be innocuous. No one can be contaminated.

The value of the games lies in the inspiration to young boys who are learning the game and who wish to become expert. There are at present many youngsters who are taking a keen interest in this form of sport. They have formed teams of their own and play matches and seem likely to redeem the city from its condition of apathy in regard to healthy sport.

With all due respect for authority there is grave doubt if anybody has power to interfere and it is a pity that they should have the will. We cannot all think alike. The vast majority seldom or never go to church and the church goer must realize it. There are hundreds in this city who think it more to the advantage of any person to watch a keen game on Sunday than to sit and listen to a sermon that sends them to sleep. They may not be right, but they have as much right to their opinion as the rest of us. As we said yesterday there are other things much more important than stopping a baseball match. If the match will get the boys away from some of their sordid surroundings for a time it is well worth playing. The churches have tried and have failed. Give the ball game a chance.

Section Two as Residential District.

The City Council last night made it clear that no attempt had been made either by the city or provincial authorities to make the returned soldiers build their houses in Section 2. The suggestion came from the returned men themselves who recognized that Section 2 was one of the finest parts of the city in which to live. This is proved by the fact that so many of them have already purchased lots there on which they intend to build.

The plans and specifications for the new bridge to Section 2 are still under consideration. There are a number of interests to consult. One of these is the G. T. P. which has a right of way beneath, and the other is the provincial government that is helping to build it. That takes time. As soon as the plans have been approved by everyone it is the general hope that work on the bridge will be pushed forward so that it may be erected before the bad weather sets in. With the building of the bridge Section 2 will be very desirable as a place of residence.

Great Harvest From the Sea.

There is a good run of sockeye salmon in progress and both fishermen and cannerymen are making good money. At Esaton and other points everyone is working night and day to take care of this unusual harvest.

Halibut fishing has been unusually good this year. Unfortunately the strike came at the time when it was at its best and the harvest was lost. Weather conditions have been so good that fishermen have been able to get good results, much better than last year.

Compare this fruitful harvest here with the harvest on some parts of the prairies where the farmers will not reap enough wheat to provide seed for next year and we realize how lucky we are. It is our year.

Imagine a condition under which there is no income for a whole year and no grain with which to sow next year's crop and you have the condition of many prairie farmers this year in Alberta and Saskatchewan. In British Columbia the crops are good, whether it be hay, grain or fish. Surely we are the chosen people.

"Three years ago, I began to feel run-down and tired, and suffered very much from Liver and Kidney Trouble. Having read of 'Fruit-a-tives', I thought I would try them. The result was surprising.
