Opening Event of New Musical Organization Given at Capitol Theatre

PROGRAM WAS DIVERSE

Readings Help Round Out Entertainment

The premiere appearance last night in the Capitol Theatre of the Prince Rupert Singers, under the direction of H. N. Brocklesby, in a high class program of folk songs, madrigals, spirituals and fantasies was something distinctly new and interesting in local entertainment and something which Prince Rupert music lovers will keenly look forward to hearing more of. Mr. Brocklesby has assembled much of the cream of local talent and in the past two months has made of them a harmonious and technically excellent musical group.

Their program was a diverse one and, in a rather wide range The ore vein system is reported of selections, they made a most the stirring "Song of the Vik-Woods My Master Went" by a ladies' chorus was another notable selection.
