Man in the Moon

Stock he bought went soaring
Buyer full of glee,
Full ten points advancement
"I told you so," said he.

Then the stocks came tumbling,
Buyer's face was long,
Country's going to the dogs,
Everything is wrong.

He had choked her—

She was dead—there could be no doubt about that. He had listened to her dying gasp.

Now she was cold—cold as the hand of death.

Yet in his anger, he was not convinced. Furiously he kicked her. To his amazement she gasped, sputtered and began to hum softly.

"Just a little patience is all it takes, John," remarked his wife from the rear seat.

There's one thing about the old motor boat, she does not need tires.

Jake says there's one thing about the car, it travels more than eight miles an hour.

Cears are said to be masculine because they get rattled at the touch of a feminine hand.

It's a good thing spring is coming. The old suit is getting pretty thin.

[illegible] by Caroline Mitchell, aged 10, who won first prize in recent [illegible] School contest conducted by the Daily News, is published in the News today.

Was Tortured With Eczema For Years

Mrs. George Shambler, 119 Creighton St., Halifax, N.S., writes:—"After being tortured with eczema, for years, and trying everything possible from doctors and drug stores, a friend recommended me to take

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

I sent my husband to get me a bottle, and after I had taken it I noticed the cooling of my blood, so he advised me to continue, and after taking several bottles I can truly say it is a wonderful medicine."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

SO MANY HUSBANDS DEPEND ON ME

A fable for British Columbia Housewives

SHE saw them in her kitchen—a host of elf-like men.

A miller, a soap maker, a travelling salesman. A band of Lilliputians, each representing some one local industry in which her fellow men and women are employed.

Back of each local product she saw ambitious families just like her own. That is why she enjoyed a sense of pride and loyalty every time she purchased the products of her fellow men. In every room in her house she saw the vision of the elfine workmen, for the articles of her home from attic to basement were the products of her home land.

There's a moral to this story

Every time a housewife purchases a B.C. Product, B.C. husbands benefit. B.C. industries are kept active replacing the products purchased by local housewives. Every woman who knows the prosperity of British Columbia husbands depends on their wives asks first: "Is it made in B.C.?"

This is the sixth advertisement of a series authorized by the B.C. Products Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade in the interests of the manufacturers of British Columbia.
