Steamer is Held Up by Lack of Proper Grades at the Local Elevator

It is expected that the Swedish freighter Sydland, here to load a full cargo of grain for the United Kingdom or continent, will be in port at least another week awaiting the arrival of the required grades of wheat. There are some 100 carloads of grain now on the way here and 35 of these are expected to arrive this week-

The condition of affairs, as far as the Wheat Pool is concerned on this coast, is reported to be similar in Vancouver to what it is here. Boats are at present being held up there awaiting grades and heavy demurrage costs are piling up. The Sydland, in fact, was diverted from Vancouver to Prince Rupert.

The heavy flow of grain eastward to the likehead last fall is said to be accountable for the present situation on the Pacific coast.
