LONDON, ENG., Sept. 11 -Miss Muriel Martin - Harvey, daughter of Sir John Martin-Harand Lady Martin-Harvey (Miss de Silva), is also an actress and while playing in the "creepy" play, "Blackmail," at the Chelsea I Palace here recently was given a creepy experience at home one night by a burglar.

Awake, she saw the door of her bedroom, which is at the end of a passage, open slowly, and, rubbing her eyes, she sat up. She thought, or tried to think that it was her father. The figure entered stealthily. "Yes, daddy, what is it?" said Miss Martin-Harvey though a bit doubtfully.

When the door was slowly closed and the key, which is on the outside, was turned. Sir John and Lady Martin-Harvey were then awakened by a piercing scream, and when they reached her door they found their daughter had gone into another bedroom which leads from her own. Still not quite realizing what had happened, she cried, "why am I locked in?" It was not till the door was unlocked that she grasped what had happened.

A glance downstairs revealed many traces of burglars. Drawers miles from Terrace. Stage leaves the hall searched for cheques. All day and Saturday, $2 return. He hopes it will be returned, as its value is chiefly sentimental.

Sir John made the following appeal to the burglars in conection with the silver salver: "I should be obliged if they would send it back, because it is of no value to Clements and Queen Charlotte any but myself except as old sil- City, hire cars and trucks from ver and the gurglars would not get much for it even at that. I hope they will be gentlemen enough to send it back to me, because I attach great sentimenal value to it, owing to the cherished associations with which it is connected."
