AWAIT TRIAL OKALLA JAIL

Man Accused of Murder Arrived Yesterday Afternoon and Goes South

WILL BE TRIED HERE

Victim Buried at Hazelton Following Coroner's Jury Verdict of Murder

Committed for trial by Stipendiary Magistrate S. H. Hoskins at Hazelton on a charge of murder, Steve Doljokov, swarthy and shifty-eyed Czech-Slovakian, possibly forty years old and quite probably older, was brought to the city from the interior on yesterday afternoon's train and will be taken tomorrow evening by the steamer Prince George to Okalla, where he will be incarcerated pending trial for his life at the fall assizes here. Doljokov, who is alleged to have knifed to death a fellow countryman, Metri Smiljich, at Dorreen station last Sunday morning, was brought to the city in charge of Inspector William Spiller and Constable William Harrison, provincial constables. Managed to Constable Harrison, he was moved from the train into the police car and driven by Staff Sergeant Alex McNeill to the local lock-up. He seemingly took a slight disinterest in the crowd that assembled around on the platform to catch a glimpse of the man who is charged with homicide. He is thin and angular and wore a wrinkled blue serge suit with shirt of lighter blue. The victim of the attack was buried at Hazelton after a coroner's jury had returned a verdict that his death had been as a result of premeditated murder at the hands of the accused. The prisoner will be taken on to Okalla tomorrow evening by Constable Harrison.

SCIENTISTS TO MEET AFRICA

British Association Will Gather in Cape Town on July 22; To Include Canadians

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, July 19.—When the British Association for the Advancement of Science opens its annual meeting in Cape Town on July 22, it will be the second time for this noted body to meet in this country. The association's last visit to South Africa was in 1905. Canada has been the meeting place four times, and Australia twice. The association's first meeting in Australia in 1914 practically coincided with the outbreak of the war. Despite its 98 years of existence this convocation of scientists has never met in London.

There is nothing insular about the British Association for the Advancement of Science, for many of the world's leading savants, including French, German, Dutch and American, are members, and some of these are coming to South Africa this year, the majority for the first time. Their number will be further augmented by South African scientists.

The Cape Argus, in a special article on the coming visit of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, mentions some of the most prominent among the expected delegates. These include: Sir Robert Falconer, president of the University of Toronto; Prof. John McLennan, of the University of Toronto; Sir Ernest Rutherford, Cavendish professor of experimental physics and director of Cavendish laboratory, University of Cambridge, and professor of natural philosophy, Royal Institution, formerly Macdonald professor of physics, McGill University, Montreal; and the president-elect of the British association, Sir Thomas Henry Holland, president of the University of Edinburgh. He is a son of the late John Holland of Springfield, Manitoba.

Prairie Crop Situation Not At All Bad is Opinion of the Newspapermen Across Mountains

That the prairie outlook is not anything like as bad as it may seem on the surface is the impression gained by George Wilson, business manager of The Daily News, from his attendance at the convention of advertising managers of western newspapers at Jasper. He says that the men he met from the prairies are enthusiastic over business conditions. They say that the crop situation is not at all bad. While the amount of grain thrashed will be much less than last year, the price will be high and the cost of harvesting and thrashing will be much less. The result will be that the average farmer will be almost as well off as if he had a large straw crop, such as that of last season.

The business from Winnipeg west would hum and that the development of that section of Canada would be such as to set the west well on the way toward business domination is the view of the newspapermen, and naturally the western outlets will benefit.
