Vancouver Faces Serious Power Famine Services Being Cut

Catholic Archbishop Urges Prayers For Rain Be Offered by Clergy in All Their Devotions

VANCOUVER, Nov. 30.—With the consumption of electric power cut by means of conservation methods from a normal use of 900,000 kilowatt hours to 700,000, the B. C. Electric Railway & Power Co. announced yesterday that the consumption must be still further cut to 400,000 kilowatt hours immediately to make the present power supply last four weeks without rain, otherwise Vancouver will have a power famine within a fortnight.

As industries use 70 per cent of the power in the city, the company looks to them for the bulk of the reduction. One lumber company yesterday laid off 60 employees in an answer to the appeal. Thirty street cars have been taken off and the entire service will be cut in half next week.

The chief of police has been authorized to take on 25 additional patrolmen owing to the darkening of the city. The meteorological officials predict further dry weather.

Most Rev. Timothy Casey, archbishop of Vancouver, today urged the Catholic clergy to include prayers for rain in all their devotions.

English Plays Strong in Paris

Despite Fierce Competition Shakespeare and Ben Jonson Are Thriving

PARIS, Nov. 30.—After three centuries, and despite all the competition of revue and talkie, Ben Jonson and Shakespeare still play to crowded houses in Paris. Both these old rivals of the Elizabethan stage have undergone some modification in their French dress, but in "Volpone" and the "Merry Wives" they are there none the less. "Volpone" is so successful as to lead Rene Clair, one of the younger producers, to declare: "The tide has turned in favor of the legitimate stage again. The cinema never could draw the crowd away from the play like 'Volpone.'"

And "Volpone" is playing cheek by jowl with the modern thriller of Montmartre. One has to climb the famous hill to find it, pass around the Palace Pigalle and by the Moulin de la Galette to the most sophisticated square in the world. There above the doorway of the Theatre de l'Atelier electric lights pick out the words: "Volpone—Ben Jonson." Just across the way is one of the biggest talkie houses in Paris.
