SEES CRIME IN A DREAM

Discovery of Murder is Made Through Curious Vision of a Woman

FOUND IN TREE

Man Thought to Be Guilty Now In Insane Asylum

YARMOUTH, N.S., Dec. 28:—A woman's dream has solved the mystery which enshrouded the disappearance more than a year ago of Thomas Comeau, brother of Mrs. Joseph Gaudet, wife of the assistant chief of police in this town. Comeau's body had been located in the trunk of a tree in a Maine wilderness near Skowhegan where he had been working as a lumberman and authorities are now seeking further details as to the manner in which he reached his death according to the story which has reached here.

On the edge of these woods lived Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reynolds, her daughter Mrs. Comeau, and her husband, On April 29, 1928, Comeau went fishing with Frank Reynolds and never returned. Reynolds stated, as a reason for Comeau's non return, that he had gone to Eustis and shortly after Reynolds failed in health, was examined and finally committed to the Bangor Insane Asylum. A few days ago Raymond Ryan of Starks, Maine, was visiting the Reynolds house and inquired as to the health of Comeau. To Ryan, Mrs. Reynolds disclosed the fact that Comeau had never returned, neither had he been heard from and that she had had a most alarming vision one night about midnight in which she saw the shadowy form of Comeau and heard him cry: "He's killing me. He's killing me." This apparition has been constantly in the mind of Mrs. Reynolds, but she feared to relate her suspicions.

Killed For Money

Ryan immediately went to Deputy Sheriff George Walker, North Anson, recounted what Mrs. Reynolds had told him and the wheels of justice began to turn. A check-up of the circumstances of Comeau's disappearance led to another man being implicated and the police interviewed Andrew Edgar, confined for a minor crime in the Androscoggin jail. Edgar became more and more nervous when questioned concerning the disappearance of Comeau and finally admitted that he knew the woodsman was dead. His version of the affair was that Reynolds killed Comeau for the $200 Comeau had saved from his earnings as lumberman in the Stark woods. He agreed to lead the authorities to the dead tree stump in which the body of Reynolds' victim had been hidden and a posse of deputies immediately left for the scene. All statements of Edgar proved correct for the skeleton of a body, believed to be that of Comeau was found in the decayed trunk of a huge tree, completely hidden by a growth of leaves and branches. The theory of the police is that Reynolds sneaked up behind Comeau and felled him with a blow of his axe.

Comeau was a travelling woodsman and he lived with the Reynolds when not at work. He was a big, rugged man and served in France during the world war. Reynolds was formerly a taxi driver of Lewiston and had been living on the farm at Starks for several years. Edgar hails from Salt Lake City, Utah, and he started back last December with his wife, but only to go as far as Lewiston, where he was subsequently arrested for selling mortgaged property. Sheriff Markam is in communication with the superintendent of the Bangor Insane Asylum and an endeavor to conduct an interview with Reynolds will be made and further particulars will be obtained if possible, from the prisoner. Edgar, Two brothers of Mrs. J. Gaudet are at present on the scene waiting any developments that may take place and it is expected that the peculiar vision of Mrs. Reynolds may be the means of solving what might have been written in history as an unsolved mystery.

Haunted House Of Ossipee in New Hampshire

OSSIPEE, N.H., Dec. 28:—This village has a house that has been unoccupied 65 years, all because of stories of ghosts. Some of the ghosts are reported to be headless, and perhaps that has something to do with it.

Old, dilapidated and spooky in appearance, many strange tales are told by the natives regarding the early history of the place. One is to the effect that some 30 years ago a Dr. Colby and family occupied the homestead. But after contact with a headless ghost, so the story goes, the physician and his families disappeared. Lights were frequently seen in the windows, but when neighbors called, believing the Colbys had returned, they always found the place deserted. When the family did return it was for but a day, for they were again frightened away by the headless spook.

The building has never since had a tenant and it has become known as the Home of the Headless Man. It is probably the oldest building in Carroll county, built of adze-hewn timbers and quaintly panelled and wainscoted.

Man in the Moon

A few of the world's great men will now appear before the people of Prince Rupert and tell why they should be elected to the city council.

Jake says any person who mentions civic election to him until after the New Year holiday will be liable to get his head bashed in, his face distorted and his rear end badly injured.

The inferiority complex is the feeling you get from the knowledge that while your neighbor received two hundred Christmas cards you received only one hundred.

Which are you: a five-ton truck or a trailer? Jake says he's a five-ton truck down at the beer parlor, but only a trailer at home.

When does a woman pause in her age. Some say it is at 23, others at 25, but there are some who are willing even to admit that they have spent thirty summers on this mortal sphere.

Things may not be as bad as they seem to be, but, unfortunately they seem to be.

How dear to our heart is the steady subscriber,
Who pays in advance at the birth of each year.
Who pays in his money and does it quite gladly,
And casts round the office a halo of cheer.
He never says: "Stop it; I cannot afford it,
I'm getting more papers than now I can read."
But always says: "Send it; our people all like it—
In fact, we all think it a help and a need."
How it makes our pulse throb; how it makes our heart dance,
We outwardly thank him; we inwardly bless him—
The steady subscriber who pays in advance.
