

Man in the Moon

Blessed are the poor. They have nothing to worry about except making a living.

A born leader is one who can organize others that they do the work and he gets the glory.

Hell, for some people, would be a Church meeting where their worm diet is not and the fire of emotion is not quenched.

The best evidence of spring is the people you see buying a garden rake in order to go fishing crabs.

Memory is very kind. Think how many suicides there would be if people remembered all their debts.

My memory is failing. It's going fast alas, But I am thankful I forget The times I was an ass.

Jake says he is planning the formation of a Meddler's Club.

I've joined the Elks and Masons. I've also joined the Moose. I've joined until I fear I have Entirely cooked my goose.

It costs so much, this joining. Ah, there now is the rub, I've only one more lot to join And that's the Meddler's Club.

T. W. Brewer, of the forestry service at Hazelton is back from the front. He went away in 1914 as a private and returned as a captain.

Spring-Clean MISHAPS

EVEN simple injuries are apt to cause a deal of pain and worry during spring-cleaning time. Along with the dust, are disturbed myriads of tiny disease germs. Their mission is to attack any exposed sore place and set up festering and blood-poison.

Knowing this, the wise housekeeper takes no chances. She always keeps a box of antiseptic Zam-Buk on a handy shelf.
