THE SPOILS SYSTEM

(Winnipeg Free Press)

The Conservative opposition in the Dominion parliament, in carrying on for several days a vigorous attack upon the administration of the post office department, showed that they have a realization that the temper of the public is hostile to anything that looks like a revival of the spoils system. While in the particular case of the postmaster at Simcoe, upon which a motion of censure was moved, the minister had a technical defense which was fairly sound, the general discussion, with the instances of dismissals cited by members taking part in it, was pretty conclusive that Mr. Veniot has been willingly active in the petty, wretched business of cutting off the heads of rural postmasters at the demand of local patronage committees or the sitting member. This means that in this limited sense we have been having an application of the spoils system which is out of keeping with the stage of political feeling. Postmasters in the larger post offices are protected by the rule that there must be an investigation based upon formal charges; but with respect to the small offices the minister has been avowedly acting upon the principle that he will give effect to a recommendation as to dismissal or appointment by the sitting member or the defeated candidate, if of the approved political color. Those are mostly small offices with remuneration which seems trifling; but, nevertheless, as was made clear during the discussion, there is often a good deal of personal hardship involved in the loss of even a small office. Public opinion, we are very sure, does not desire that the humblest official should be dismissed at the say-so of any individual without the right of some kind of an enquiry at which a defense can be offered.

The architect's drawing of the 5,400,000 bushel grain elevator to be built at Prescott, Ontario, on the St. Lawrence River, at a cost of about $4,000,000, by the Dominion Government. It will be completed early next year when the new $120,000,000 Welland Ship Canal will be open for traffic.

Mirage... or Reality

N the horizon we all catch glimpses of El Dorado . . . the city of gold . . . where there will be no more hardship or privation.

It is human-and indeed commendable -to seek always after financial independence. It is human . . . but none the less tragic . . . that so many are tempted to seek some short cut or royal road to wealth.

For many and unscrupulous are those who prey upon inexperience.

Get-rich-quick schemes and promoters of doubtful speculationsthey lead us on with alluring promises of prosperity - lead us on to disillusionment and loss.

And all the while the reality lies within our grasp. For, by means of adequate, well-selected Life Insurance, even the humblest of us may build up an estate beyond our expectations . . . may win independence and security for ourselves and those we love. Any Life Insurance representative will show you the safe
