Labor Gathering Will be Important.

A very important gathering of labor leaders will take place at Washington on October 29. It may possibly be made the most important gathering ever held, or it may prove to be a farce. It is a world conference for the purpose of unifying the efforts of labor in all countries.

The News has on more than one occasion given the opinion that no effort for betterment of labor conditions can possibly be stable unless all the countries of the world are included. Cheap labor will always compete with dear labor, and we have passed the day when it might be possible to fence off the countries where cheap labor is employed.

China tried fencing the other countries of the world off and she remained stagnant for a thousand years. That was the penalty. Any country that erects a barrier whether of trade or anything else against the rest of the world will from that moment commence to stagnate.

The labor gathering at Washington will, it is stated, discuss an eight-hour day policy for the entire world; state aid for the unemployed; regulations or prevention of child labor, and conditions of employment of women in industry.

Those who know the labor conditions that exist in some of the countries against which Canadians compete will realize how far-reaching that small program might be. The difficulty will be to follow it up and try to whip the other countries into line.

Strikes Seem to Be Settling Down.

Strikes are not as frequent or as virulent as they were. People are apparently beginning to settle down after the disturbing conditions caused by the war and by the scarcity of food and clothing. The troubles are not all over, but it is possible that the worst is past. Governments are now alive to the conditions which exist and if they act wisely and with vigor, things should settle down, not to the old conditions for those will never return, but to a more stable condition in which labor and capital will co-operate.

Fishing Industry Being Organized.

The representative of the Pacific Sea Products Association is in the city for the purpose of organizing the fishing industry in the direction of the marketing of their product. At Seattle the fishing industry has secured a good deal of encouragement and here public attention has been drawn to the matter again and again with the result that the Dominion Government is now interesting itself in the business.

Prince Rupert is the natural fishing port of the Pacific and if the authorities act wisely and provide proper facilities, the business will not only be retained here, but will increase. The News has said this before, but it cannot be said too often. The authorities do not yet seem to have grasped the fact that the most important industry we have is the fishing industry.
