Arthur Lewis, a fisherman, was this morning convicted before Justice McMullen in the Provincial police court of operating a drag seine illegally on territory covered by the license of the Lower Columbia. ## SEIZED STILL AND MASH FOR LIQUOR MAKING

Dan Sutherland Will Appear in Police Court Tomorrow to Account for His Acts.

Last evening the city police raided the shack of Dan Sutherland at 536 8th Avenue West and found the man in possession of a still. Everything was on hand to carry out the project and a large barrel of mash was in the corner of the bedroom. The mixture was in a state of fermentation and more than one occasional visitor has paused by the police station door to catch a sniff of the invigorating odor which issues from the barrel as it stands in the corner.

The outfit was a rather crude one. According to the prisoner's story a friend in Ocean Falls had described how the project might be carried out and he rapidly took up the idea and he states that about a week ago he had assembled the collection of coal oil cans, etc., and set to work. The still is very simple in structure and the condenser consisted of a small lard can framed up within a larger one. The strainer was simply made from a coal oil can with many holes punched in the sides.

Curious Mixture.

A short time ago the man had ordered a large quantity of fruit at one of the local stores and all this had gone into the mixture. The ingredients which were acting very vigorously from the effects of the yeast which had been added, consisted of prunes, figs, raisins, molasses, Jamaica ginger and many other kinds of spices. There were a number of bottles about the room and corks in readiness for the spirits when it should be ready to be distilled from the big barrel.

The raid took place about 10 last night and the man was taken quite unawares as he was about to get into bed. The barrel was in the sleeping chamber, but the other implements were in the other part of the dwelling. All the paraphernalia were brought to the police station last evening by Officers Leek, Bell, Bailey and Adams.

The owner of the still will appear in the police court tomorrow morning charged under the Inland Revenue Act with having a still for making spirits in his possession.

SWIMMING CLUB IS SHOWING ACTIVITY

Will Make Effort to Wipe Out Small Debt and Increase Their Funds.

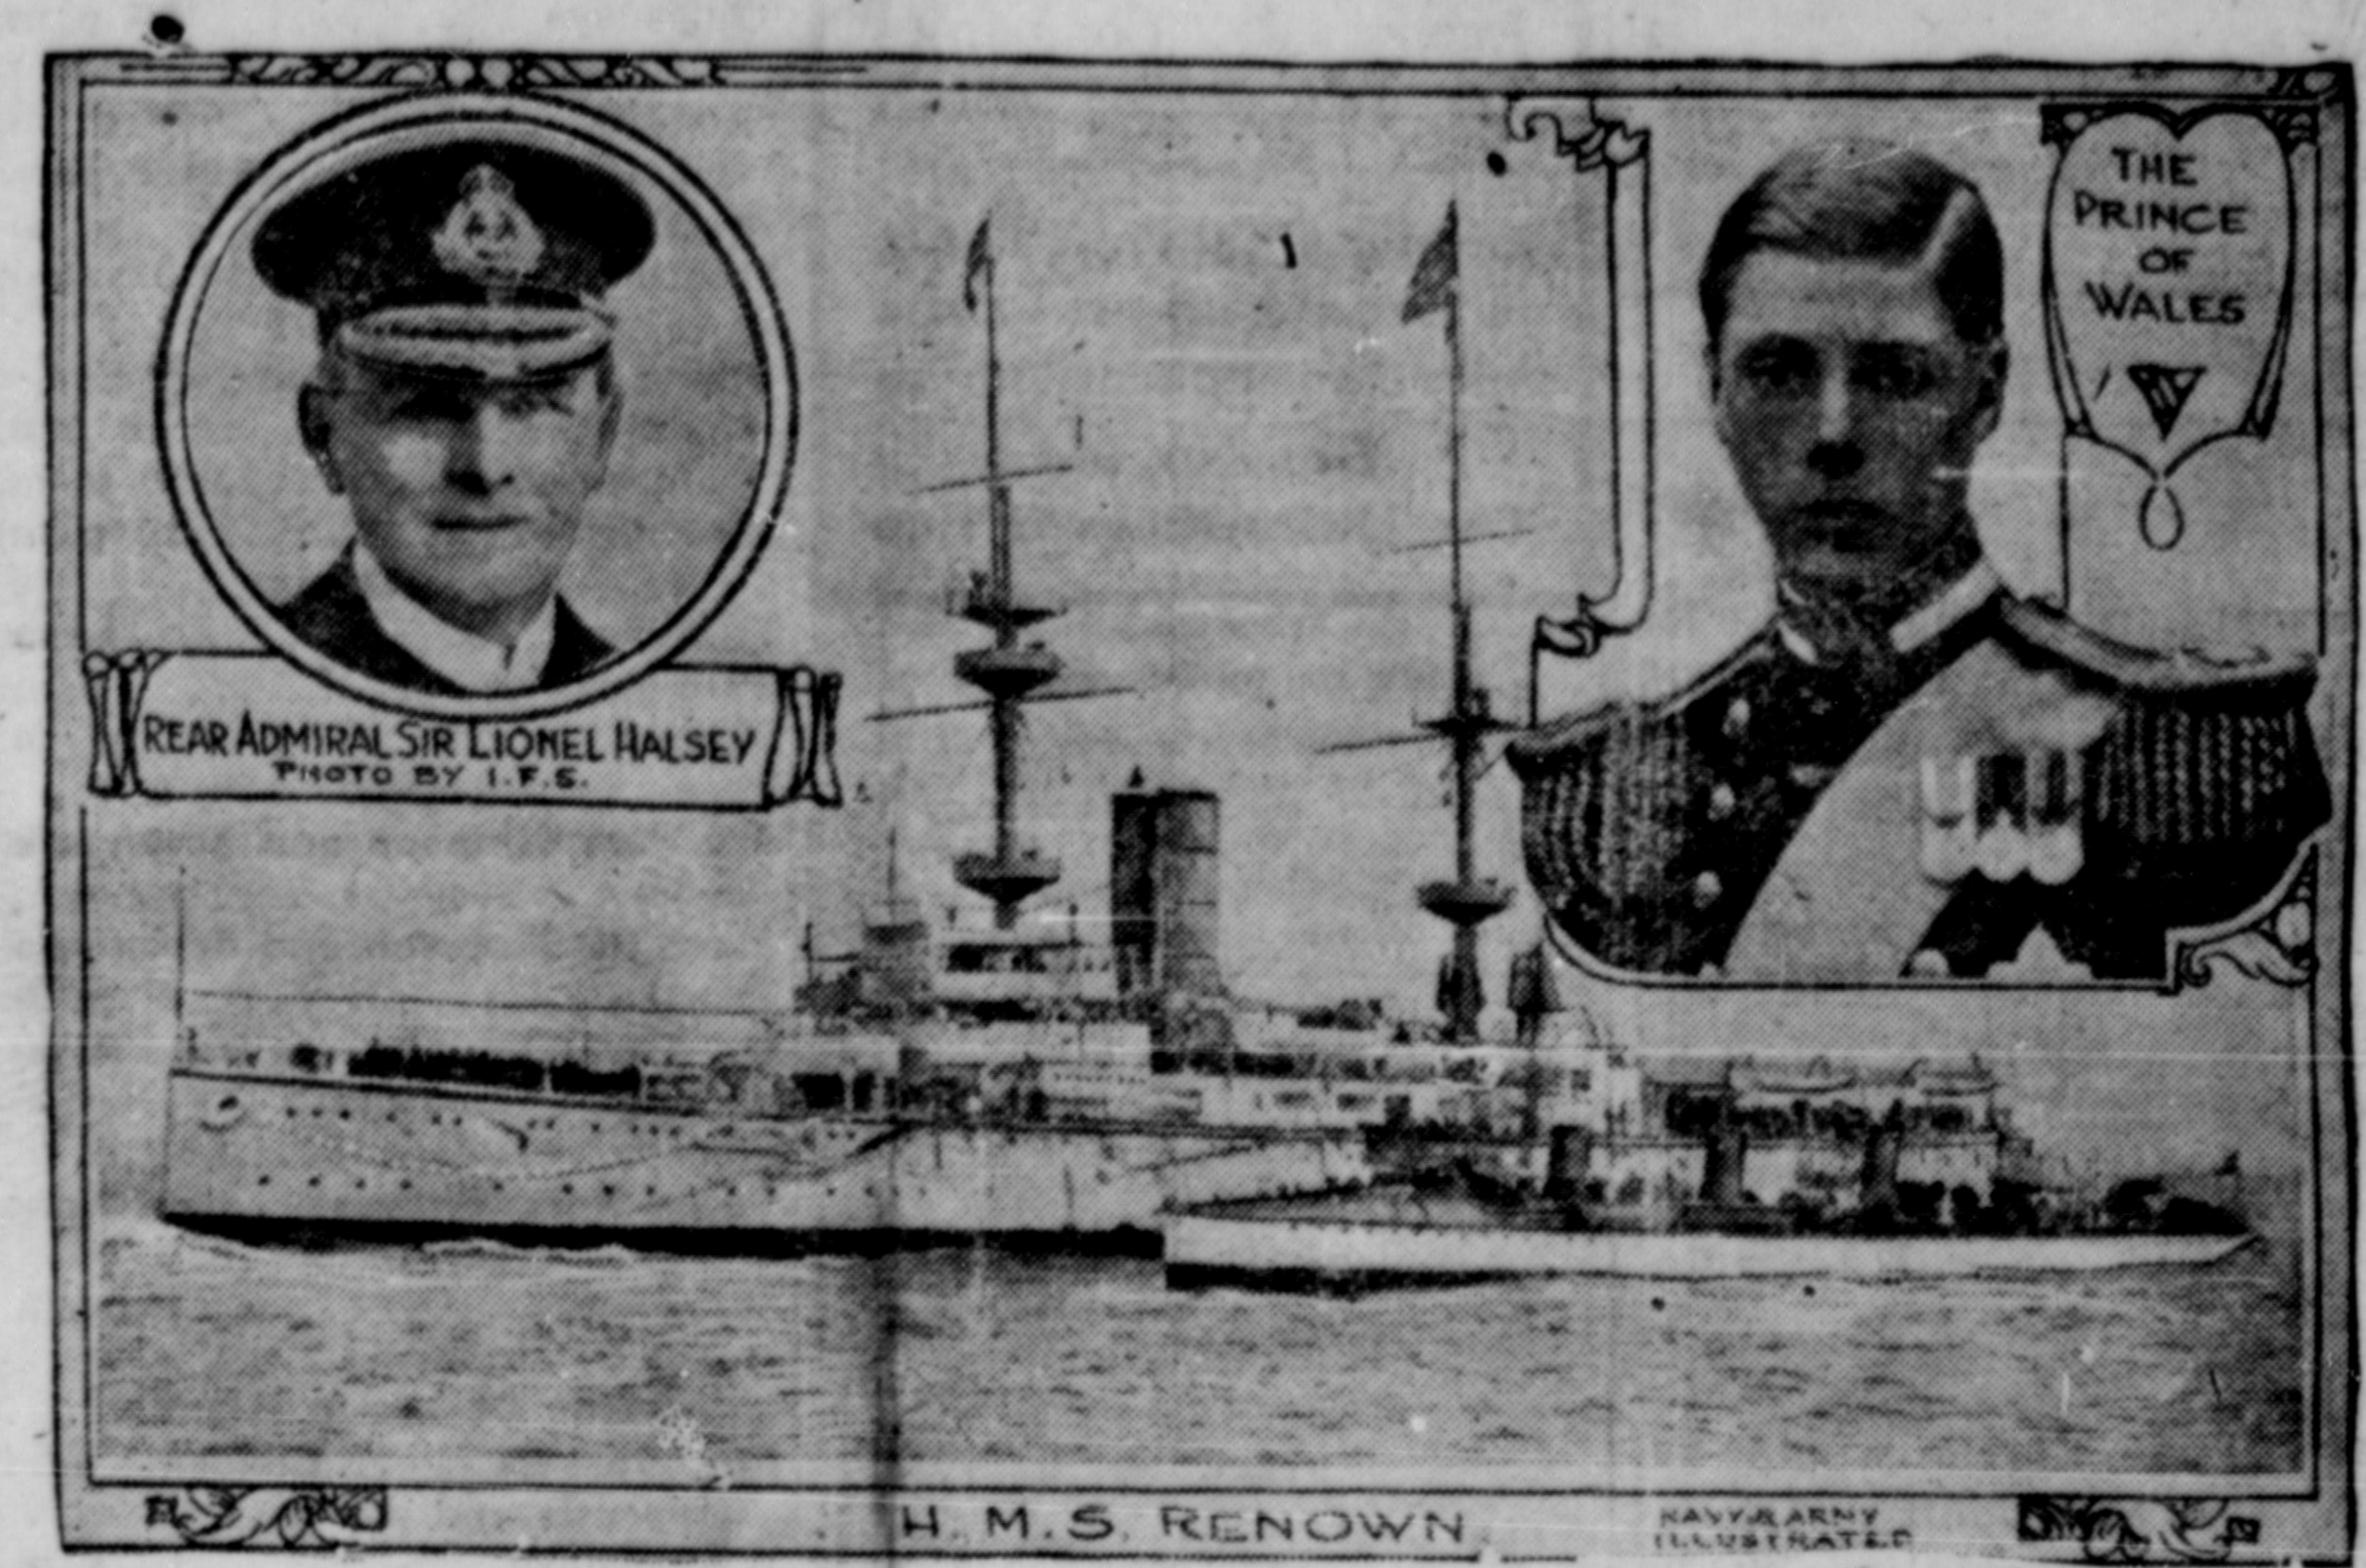

The Prince Rupert Swimming Club has spent a lot of money this year in making first class swimming accommodation at the Salt Lakes. Not only have they put in sand for the children, but they have completed the floats and diving apparatus, they have completed the men's dressing pavilion and generally improved the condition at the end of the lake where the crowds assemble to watch the sport.

As a result of the activities the club is now over $300 in debt and as several members of the club have made themselves responsible for this, the debt must be paid. In order to do this the club is asking for some further aid from the public. If all do a little there will be no difficulty in paying what is due and putting a few dollars in the treasury for further improvements.

SALMON RUN IS RECORD IN MANY YEARS

Sockeye are Valuable Now and Cannerymen Will Make a Pot of Money.

Port Essington, Aug. 20.—This is a record year in the salmon fishing. There has not been a season like it for at least twelve years, possibly longer. All the canneries have large packs and some have had so much fish they have been unable to get cans to put it in. There has been a good deal of co-operation, however, in the matter of providing cans.

The sockeye season was a surprise to everyone. These fish are the ones that are in greatest demand and that fetch the big prices. The result is that canners will make a lot of money, more than they have made in many years.

The humpbacks have had a good run and so much choice fish has been taken that the tendency is to neglect the chums which are coming later.

Cohoes are light this season. For that reason trollers have not been making very good money at the mouth of the river.

PROTEST MEETING HELD AT ALICE ARM COMMERCIAL CLUB

Alice Arm, Aug. 20.—At a meeting of the Commercial Club here a protest was made at the refusal of the Taylor Engineering Co. to handle passengers and powder shipments on the Dolly Varden Mines Railway. It was stated that as a result of the action of the company the work on a number of properties at the head of the Kitsault River is being badly delayed.

The citizens of Alice Arm, through the Commercial Club, have taken the matter up with the Minister of Mines and the Minister of Railways by wire in hope that some action may be taken to afford a measure of relief. Individual owners are also working independently toward the same end.

At the meeting it was explained that this recent ruling seems to conflict with a statement made by A. J. T. Taylor, president of the Taylor Engineering Company, while on a visit to the property a short time ago to the effect that his company would do everything they consistently could to advance the interests of the district. There are a number of properties under bond on which a certain amount of work must be completed by a given time, there are others getting out ore for shipment and all find it difficult to secure miners and laborers to work on the claims as they now have to walk the railroad ties for sixteen miles to get to the properties. The pack train that formerly covered this trail is being taken to Stewart and the only way to get powder to the mines is for the miners to pack it up themselves.

No assurance has been given prospective shippers that their ore will be handled from the end of steel to tide water this season, the local management giving as a reason lack of motive power and equipment. Taken altogether it was said the situation is assuming a very serious aspect in the eyes of property holders.

PACK TRAIN MOVES ALICE ARM TO STEWART

MAN WHO WROTE THE BUDGET SPEECHES

R. E. Gosnell Passed Through the City This Morning on way To Ottawa.

R. E. Gosnell of the Dominion Department of Information and formerly in the Provincial Government employ at Victoria, came north this morning and proceeded east on his way to Ottawa.

Mr. Gosnell was private secretary to Premier McBride and is well known in connection with his activities in the Provincial Bureau of Information, as editor and compiler of the British Columbia Year Book, and as head of the archives department. For a short time he was editor of the Victoria Daily Colonist and is said to have written the budget speech for Mr. Price Ellison on more than one occasion. One of these, it will be remembered, was never delivered as it was published in the Daily Province on the day it was supposed to be delivered, but owing to obstruction on the part of the opposition it was delayed and appeared in the Vancouver paper that afternoon. It was a different speech that was made by the minister next day.
