BEACH PEOPLE FINED FOR NOT BUYING LICENSE

VANCOUVER, May 7.—Complaining about interference conditions without having paid the necessary license fee of one dollar to operate a receiver brings unexpected results. It is revealed that when reception conditions at Britannia Beach were rather poor a few weeks ago, a group of fans signed a petition asking that an inspector be sent there to clear up the offending noises. The petition was forwarded to the radio branch of the department of marine and fisheries and Inspector Bowerman and one of his engineers here were ordered to the scene. The joy of the fans upon seeing the officials turned to deep gloom when it was learned that the first task confronting them was to enquire why ten of the petitioners had neglected to obtain a license. All were presented with summonses and with one exception paid a fine of five dollars and two and one-half dollars in costs without going to court. The remaining ten appeared in court, pleaded guilty and paid $7.50 like the others.

VANCOUVER WAS EASILY HEARD FOR ORATIONS

Usually Prince Rupert People Have to Rely on American Stations For Music It is curious that on the evening when the oratory contest was going on at Vancouver, the station CNRV over which it was broadcast was heard well here almost from the beginning of the program starting at about eight o'clock. Other evenings this station is either not here at all or not until much later in the evening. It is understood that extra power was used for the special broadcast and this enabled Prince Rupert fans to hear. If there were a high powered Canadian station at or near Vancouver operated by the Canadian Government Prince Rupert would be able to hear Canadian programs instead of having to listen to advertisements of American hams and bacon, American flour, American candies, American steamships and railways and a number of other American products or utilities.

SLAVE TRADE ARABIA TODAY

Many Negroes Sold Into Captivity and Pilgrims Sell Children

JERUSALEM, May 7.—The slave traffic, notwithstanding resolutions passed by the League of Nations, is still operating in the Near East, Reports just published say that some 2000 blacks each year are brought from Africa into the Arab slave market.

The trade in human beings extended over the Sudan, Abyssinia, the Hedjaz, The Nejed, the Yemen, and the coast of Somaliland, even in the trans-Jordan, it is not altogether unknown, sheikhs there have black attendants who serve all their lives without payment.

Price Moderate

The price of this human commodity is moderate, an average slave fetches $100 to $200; a youth $300; a young girl $300, and a maid $600.

Most of the human material for the slave market is drawn from Africa, the blacks are brought across the Red Sea in small vessels and packed off in troops of 20 to 30. On landing they are started along the Pilgrims road to Mecca, sometimes journeying with the pilgrims themselves.

Believers, having made the pilgrimage to the Moslems holy city are not infrequently themselves purveyors to the slave markets, after being fleeced by the sharpers who abound in Mecca, the pilgrims are often without money for the journey home, so they sell their own children.
