LOCAL MEMBER SPEAKS ON BUDGET

NO SPEEDING UP OF IMMIGRATION DURING PRESENT YEAR

J. C. Brady in Speech at Ottawa Favors Closing Prince Rupert Against United States' Halibut

Discusses Budget and Comes Out Strongly in Favor of High Protective Tariff for This Country

OTTAWA, March 16.—Resuming the debate on the budget on Friday in the house of commons, J. C. Brady, Conservative member for Skeena riding, declared that the budget did not contain much meat for the lower paid class of workers in the Dominion. Canada was finding it more difficult to hold the nation-building value of her resources. In the nine months ending November 31 last Canada exported $135,000,000 in either semi-raw or semi-manufactured iron ore products. During the same period importations of these items totalled $437,000,000. That meant that every day there was being sent out $1,000,000 to buy what could be manufactured here. With her natural resources Canada was exporting the very cream of the intellect of the nation, said Mr. Brady. In that connection the government failed to respond to the cry for technical education. If half the goods imported from United States were manufactured here, Canada's immigration problem would be solved over night. In the budget speech the minister of finance had expressed himself gratified at the development of inter-Empire trade and said it should be fostered to encourage closer relations between the Dominions. Trade figures, however, displayed a contrary situation. The present government was giving a bonus to the United States against the very spirit of the words of the minister of finance. The United States gov-

FLYING BOAT FROM SEATTLE PASSES NORTH

Spent Last Night at Swanson Bay and Previous Night Campbell River

The Boeing flying boat bound from Seattle to Juneau whence she will proceed to the interior of Northern British Columbia on a prospecting tour covered another 200 miles yesterday in its northward flight, dropping last evening at Swanson Bay from Campbell River where the ship spent the previous night.

The plane is making the first passenger flight that has ever been undertaken between Seattle and Alaska. It is in charge of T. P. McCarty and has two lady passengers—Mrs. McCarty and Mrs. Jack McCord—others on board being Capt. E. J. A. Burke, pilot, and George Lottie, mechanic. All were safe and well at Swanson Bay and the plane was in good shape, according to wireless advices.

There was some question this morning as to whether the plane would drop here as originally intended or push right through to Ketchikan. Time could be saved if it was felt by going through as the hop from Swanson Bay to Prince Rupert would be a short one and to Ketchikan it would be only about 200 miles.

The plane has been coming up the coast in shorter hops than was expected. The intention was to make intermediate stops only at Alert Bay and Prince Rupert. Instead of that the daily jumps were shortened up to Campbell River and Swanson Bay. If the flight is to be accomplished on scheduled time, it will be necessary for the ship to go right through to Ketchikan today. Messages this morning from Ketchikan asking that advice be sent there when the plane passed over Prince Rupert strengthened the belief that the ship would not stop here after all. Arrangements, however, had been made to fuel and moor at the Imperial Oil Co.'s plant.

Advising on Matters of Health

An elaborate health exhibit is to be staged in Montreal in May to show the results which may be achieved by increased expenditures for public health, as recommended by the Montreal Survey Committee concerning health conditions. The above three outstanding leaders in the public health field are advising: left to right, Dr. Gordon Bates, general secretary of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council; Dr. Grant Fleming, Director of the Department of Public Health and Preventive Medicine, McGill University, and Dr. J. A. Baudoin, Director of the School of Social Hygiene, University of Montreal.

No Great Immigration Increase Expected this Year Says Robert Forke in Speech on the Budget

OTTAWA, March 16.—Canada's immigration problems were discussed in the house of commons Friday when the minister of immigration, Hon. Robert Forke, spoke on the budget. The minister defended the government's policy and the administration of that policy by his department.

Mr. Forke replied to the many and varied criticisms which had been launched during the past few months but did not anticipate, he said, that there would be any great increase in British immigration this year. He did not think the harvesters' movement of last year would be repeated unless every precaution was taken to have employment for the men when they came to Canada.

Jack Donnelly Who Was Found Dead Yesterday Escaped as by Miracle from Horrible Massacre

John (Jack) Donnelly winchman for the Booth Fisheries, and a resident of Prince Rupert for some 15 years, who was found dead in his cabin on the waterfront yesterday, having evidently suffered a heart attack, was the sole surviving member of a family in Bidulph County, near London, Ont., which 50 years ago was massacred by a vigilance committee which mistakenly searched the family home for a man who was not present. The deceased, then four years of age, saved his life by hiding under a bed.

In that pioneer agricultural district some one had been committing the offence of burning haystacks and maiming stock by cutting off the tails of the animals and otherwise abusing them. The identity of the culprit became a mystery which the authorities could not solve, and finally, a vigilance committee was formed in the endeavor to locate the offender.

Suspicion settled on an uncle of the late Mr. Donnelly. One evening a vigilance squad of about a dozen men set out for the Donnelly home, where a party was in progress. On the way they imbibed too freely of liquor and were intoxicated by the time they reached the house which was their objective. They rudely demanded to enter the house and take the uncle. Deceased's father refused their entry and took a shotgun in his hands to back up his refusal. General shooting soon ensued and when the smoke of battle had cleared it was found that some 13 persons, including the entire Donnelly family, with the exception of deceased, as well as visiting friends, had been killed. The late Mr. Donnelly saved his own life by hiding under a bed.

The "Bidulph Tragedy" came to be known as one of the most sensational crimes ever perpetrated in the province of Ontario. The members of the vigilance committee were later apprehended and, after three trials, in all of which the jury disagreed, they were allowed to go on suspended sentence. Subsequently, it turned out that Donnelly's uncle was not the person who had burned the haystacks and maimed the animals.

The late Mr. Donnelly was born in Bidulph County and was 54 years of age. He was of Irish descent and a Catholic. He is survived by a widow in Vancouver and two children. The widow was much in the limelight a few years ago in her capacity as stenographer to Oscar Robinson, Vancouver private detective, who was sent to jail for illegal activities in connection with the investigation of the Janet Smith murder case.

The body was found by Andrew Macdonald, who was accustomed to have his lunch with deceased. The late Mr. Donnelly had apparently been stricken as he was about to rise from his bed yesterday morning. His body was partially lying on the bed.

The police were called and took charge until an enquiry was held this morning by Deputy Coroner J. R. Tannock. Evidence of the physician who performed the autopsy was to the effect that death had been due to a heart attack.

Funeral arrangements are in the hands of Hayner Bros., undertakers. Neighbor—Now, what I'm tellin' yer, Mrs. Horan, is no gossip, because everybody's talkin' about it.

BROKE RECORDS FOR TRADING

Vancouver Stock Exchange Flooded With Buying Orders For Oils

VANCOUVER, March 16.—All records for a day's trading were broken yesterday when oils were bought up in a tremendous trade and all scored advances, Royaltite closing at $30 stronger while Home Oil, McLeod, Dalhousie, Mayland and several other issues ranged from a dollar and a half to two dollars higher.

Pend Oreille was the only issue in mines to improve, closing at $1.45 up. Owing to the terrific amount of trading the stock exchange is closed today to permit members to catch up with the orders.

OIL CONCERN PURCHASED BY MILLER COURT

VANCOUVER, March 16.—Miller Court and Company, with Montreal associates completed a deal whereby they purchased a controlling interest in the Hargal Oils Company. Three thousand acres in the Turner Valley and Wainwright area are involved and the consideration is placed at more than $1,000,000. Plans are being made for the drilling of four wells in the Turner Valley, it was stated.

DAIRY FARMERS RELIEF PASSES

Other Bills Given Second Reading in Legislature Yesterday

VICTORIA, March 16.—By two to one vote the bill to give relief to the dairy farmers of the lower mainland known as the milk bill passed the second reading at yesterday's session of the legislature on a vote of 27 to 13. All members of the opposition voted for the bill while the government side was divided.

The bill to amend the Water Act, which passed on to the water board of the province the duty of dealing with public utilities disputes, passed a second reading. The leader of the opposition wanted a new commission to deal with the questions instead of the water board.

A second reading was also given the minimum wage bill.
