AMATEUR NIGHT AT WESTHOLME

Tonight and tomorrow, being Amateur Nights at the Westholme, patrons of that theatre are assured of a good time. In addition to a fine program of pictures there will be contests between local amateurs which will be both interesting, entertaining and amusing.

Tonight's contest will be vocal and instrumental. Cash prizes are offered and the audience will be the judges. Tomorrow the contest will be for monologues, dancing and turns not musical when seperate prizes for the same amounts as tonight will be awarded.

In the picture part of the program, "Slightly Used," is the feature starring May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel. It is the hilarious story of a young lady who arranges a fictitious marriage, then falls in love and wishes she hadn't. It is a show that teems with amusing situations.

There is also a fine comedy and news-reel.

These programs contain all the ingredients of a really good evening's entertainment.
