Jake says that if his wife wants a new spring hat she will have to earn it herself. He is not planning to pay fifteen dollars for two bits worth of stray and rag.

> Jake went down town And got on a jag So his wife proceeded Him to rag.

She swore she'd leave Him cold and flat If he didn't buy her A new spring hat.

So Jake, as meek As any old eat Went and purchased her A twenty dollar hat.

We have nothing against spring poems except when they are sent in for publication. The readers of of this column do not like them.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

DR. EYOLFSON and a host of elf-like men. A miller, a soap maker, a travelling salesman. A band of Lilliputians, each representing some one local industry in which her fellow men and women are A fable for employed.

Back of each local product she saw ambitious families just like her own. That is why she enjoyed a sense of pride and loyalty every time she purchased the products of her fellow men. In every room in her house she saw the vision of the elfine workmen, for the articles of her home from attic to basement were the products of her home land.

There's a moral to this story

Every time a housewife purchases a B.C. Product, B.C. husbands benefit. B.C. industries are kept active replacing the products purchased by local housewives. Every woman who knows the prosperity of British Columbia husbands depends on their wives asks first: "Is it made in B.C.?"
