Government Broadcast for Prince Rupert

Prince Rupert is badly handicapped in the matter of radio reception in that it seldom gets satisfactory reception from any Canadian station.

While doubtless a powerful broadcasting station at Vancouver would overcome some of the difficulties, this place would still be badly handicapped, especially in the matter of daylight reception.

Doubtless the federal radio department must have had such an installation in mind already, as it knows the conditions here well.

"I did not know whether her story was genuine or not," Sullivan said, "but she represented herself as being a maid at a house in Toronto.
