Mystic Hand With Rings on Fingers Causes Disaster to All Who Have it

Some months ago, as the story in Luxor has it, an antique dealer came into possession of the hand. An Austrian tourist bought it as a souvenir of his visit to Egypt. Then recently the dealer received the hand by post, with a note from the purchaser pleading with him to return it to its tomb.

The hand was wrapped in a fine Phone Red 399 white silk scarf and bore rings on two fingers. The dealer entrusted the relic to an Arab, asking him to return it to the Mortuary Temple at Hatshepsut, whence it had been taken. The peasant stole the rings and buried the hand in the outskirts of the village. His brother agreed to sell the rings in Third Avenue Cairo. But the next day the peasant's horse died and the day fol- RADIO lowing his camel died. To avoid further trouble the brothers dug FURNITURE REPAIRS, PACKING up the hand and put it on the roof. But the roof fell in.

Despite these omens the brother started for Cairo to sell the rings. He sat down on the roadside to wait for his train and was found dead several hours later. The peasant then became thoroughly alarmed. He restored the rings to the hand, swathed it again in its silken covering and PRINCE RUPERT returned it to its tomb. Since then his life has been pleasantly uneventful.
