Special Water Joe DiMaggio Deal For Rink Says He's Out

Prince Rupert Curling Club will get water for its new rink at Seal Cove on the domestic instead of commercial rate, the city council agreed last night on recommendation of the board of works. However, the water will be metered in order to keep a check on consumption.

If it was a "donation" that was intended, Ald. Thomas B. Black said he was in accord, particularly in view of the fact that the curling club had expressed the intention of making the rink it, and now special equipment is in skating.

NEW YORK — Joe DiMaggio today confirmed a statement he made at the end of the World Series—that he will not play baseball again. It is expected he will be connected with the televising of baseball next year.

GLAMORGAN, Wales — Authorities boring for a supposed underground lake to boost water supplies ran into trouble. The drill became wedged and a crowbar was dropped on top of it, and now special equipment is necessary to extricate it.
