Table Tennis Zanies Coming

That terrific duo of table tennis zanies, Ted Bourne and Bob Anderson, will be on hand to entertain with the Harlem Globetrotters this week-end.

Bourne and Anderson, outstanding for their clever comedy and pantomime, also rate among the top paddle men in the sport. Between them they hold an imposing array of championships won in all parts of the world.

Bourne, who was born in England but received his American citizenship while serving with the United States medical corps in World War II, represented Camp Amirabad camp headquarters in the Middle East table tennis championships at Teheran in 1943.

He reached the finals but lost to Sgt. Jack Cherry, former international champion. Bourne then paired with Cherry to win the doubles crown.

Anderson, a Chicagoan and former Army pilot, has won the western open table tennis championship and also captured the Illinois, California, Indiana and Ohio state titles, as well as that of the province of Ontario. Bob is a former Olympic team member and has annexed many other honors of varying degree. He became proficient at the sport while attending Chicago's Lake View High School and Wright College.

Bill (Kid) Gleeson, big 3 & 73 baseball star in the 30's, died at Philadelphia 18 years ago. He joined the Philadelphia Phillies in National League as a pitcher in 1888, but later played as a second baseman and then became a coach.

Jolly Jack Adams, now manager of the Detroit Red Wings of the N.H.L., was made captain of the old Toronto St. Pats 23 years ago. Adams then was a star centre with the old St. Pats and at this date in 1923 was among the top scorers of the National Hockey League.

The immortal Ned Hanlan, greatest of Canadian oarsmen, died at Toronto 43 years ago, aged 53. He was victorious in 300 consecutive races and resigned as world professional sculling champion after holding that title from 1880 to 1884.

Louis Odds On To Trounce Beshore

DETROIT (P)—Joe Louis, former heavyweight champion, takes another step in his comeback campaign tonight when he goes after a quick knock-out victory over durable Freddie Beshore in a 10-rounder here.

Louis this morning ruled a solid 4-1 favorite over the Harrisburg, Pa., navy veteran who claims he has not been knocked off his feet in 45 pro fights.

The fight fraternity is impressed with Louis' aggressive training program, which has brought him down to a well conditioned 212—his lowest fighting weight since the first Joe Walcott fight in 1947.

CIVIC CENTRE NOTES

The demand for tickets for the Harlem Globetrotters basketball games is increasing daily and those who have tickets reserved are requested to pick up their Friday's tickets by Wednesday evening. Tickets for Saturday will be held until Thursday evening only. After these stated times, all tickets will be put up for resale.

The regular National Film Board movies will be shown this Friday night in the Civic Centre to all members. These movies will be held in the Teen Age recreation room and are entitled as follows: "Seaside Holiday," "Skiing at Lake Louise," and "Eye Witness No. 1 Volume 4."

The Rotary Choral Society will meet on Friday night of this week and a good attendance is anticipated.

Upper Chamber Is Abolished

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (P)—The legislative council, upper house of New Zealand's parliament, has adjourned for ever.

It held its last meeting recently and went out of existence officially at the end of the year.

It will be a new thing for New Zealand as the two chambers have existed since the start of parliamentary government 96 years ago.

A committee has been set up to investigate methods of safeguarding against hasty or ill-considered legislation, so it is possible that some form of upper house may eventually be reintroduced, but it is certain to be of a different form from the old house.

The legislative council has been a long time dying. It was entirely a government-nominated body and as its members were not fixed the government of the day could always nominate sufficient new members to be certain of a majority. The result was that it became subsidiary to the House of Representatives, the Lower House. It had little real power and was used largely to amend legislation on which the government had second thoughts after Lower House proceedings. Under many governments it tended to consist largely of M.P.'s defeated at elections and veteran party supporters.

Prime Minister S. G. Holland, when leader of the opposition, made several attempts to have the legislative council abolished. He maintained that it was not fulfilling any useful purpose in its existing form.

END IN SIGHT

When the National Party won the election a year ago, the doom of the legislative council was virtually sealed, but it did not pass out of existence without a struggle. When the new government took over, the legislative council still had a very large majority of Labor supporters appointed by the previous Labor government. The new government nominated sufficient new members to give it a majority. However, old members, irrespective of party ties, were united against any abolition move. Together they still commanded a majority. It was necessary for the government to nominate a further group of new members—a "suicide squad" pledged to vote the chamber out of existence.

Hon. T. Bloodworth, an Independent and recognized as one of the outstanding men of the session that by abolishing the chamber the session had been the most disastrous in parliamentary history anywhere in the British Commonwealth. When the motion for the adjournment came, members linked arms in the centre of the chamber to sing "Auld Lang Syne" and the national anthem.
