Fishing Boat Alameda Went Down in Hecate Straits and Crew had a Narrow Escape

Three Men Rowed for Eighteen Hours in Small Skiff and Were Finally Picked up by Trolling Boat. Lost 15,000 lbs. of Halibut as well as boat No Insurance.

On Saturday evening at eight o'clock the fishing boat Alameda foundered in Hecate Straits. The crew had time to get off in their small skiff and on being picked up by a troller were brought to Dundas Harbor where they were transferred to the boat Vesta which brought them in this morning. The three men, Hans Tiedman (captain), Percy W. James and Louis Sivertsen, had rather harrowing experiences while in the open skiff and are very glad to have returned to port in safety.

At the time of the disaster the Alameda was returning to port with about 15,000 lbs. of halibut for the Sunday market. Suddenly she began to sink at the stern and it was seen that a plank must have sprung as the water very quickly crept up on the decks, which were littered with fish. The springing of a plank seems to be the only cause of the accident as the boat was making good headway in calm water and no rock was hit but suddenly started to sink.

Percy James realized the danger and ran aft, cutting the lashings of the skiff. When launching the small craft into the water it was seen that it was leaking badly so after the other two got into it he returned to the big vessel and got a buoy keg which they might use for bailing. By the time he got it, the Alameda was sinking fast and he had to swim to reach the skiff.

This was about twenty miles off Zayas Island and to this refuge they started rowing. One had the oars and the other two were kept busy bailing out the water. From Zayas they turned in the direction of North Dundas and a short time after were picked up by a troller which brought them round to Dundas harbor. Here they transferred to the Vesta.

The fishermen were eighteen hours in the small skiff and were decidedly fagged out when picked up. On reaching port today their clothes were rather dishevelled and they had a dejected appearance of having endured rough experiences.

Hans Tiedman has been fishing out of this port for a number of years and following his release from military service with the U.S. army returned here and bought the Alameda from Steve Bell. The boat was 43 feet long and has seen considerable service out of this port for four or five years. The total loss including the value of the catch is estimated by Hans at $6,000 and there is no insurance covering the accident. All three are American fishermen and the Deep Sea Fishermen's Union has wired the news of the accident to Seattle and also the good news of the safe return of the unfortunates.

(Special via G. T. P. Telegraphs.)
London, Sept. 8.—Admiral Baron Charles Beresford died yesterday while on a visit to the Duke of Portland at Langwell, Caithness, Scotland, as a result of an attack of apoplexy.

Born in 1846, the son of the fourth Marquis of Waterford, the admiral had a varied and distinguished career. He did good service at Alexandria and was on Lord Wolseley's staff in the Nile expedition. He has done a great deal of fighting and was generally looked on as the most popular man in the navy. He commanded the channel fleet from 1907 to 1909, and was elected to represent Portsmouth in the Imperial Parliament in 1910.

MANY CANNERY MANAGERS HERE

They Report Fishing Very Poor Last Week Owing to Small Tides—Better This Week.

A number of cannerymen arrived in the city this morning, among them being J. G. Dorman of Claxton, A. P. Gurd of Skeena, E. Hillman of Balmoral, A. L. Carter of Oceanic, Harry McCouper and E. M. Ural of Balmoral, E. A. Taylor of Port Eslington and R. W. Sinclair of Inverness.

Owing to the small tides last week the fishing was very poor but it is expected that there will be a pretty good run of cohoes and chums on the big tides this week. After that a good many of the canneries will close for the season.

The season on the whole has been a good one.

GIANT ENGLISH AIR LINER MANOEUVRING FOR A LANDING

In record breaking time the R-34, illustrated above, returned to England after her trip across the Atlantic to America. The round trip of the superdirigible marks an epoch in aeronautical affairs. In spite of storm and unfavorable conditions the great, rigid airship made the round trip from England to America and back without suffering any serious damage and without changing her schedule. The possibilities that have been opened up through this flight lend an interesting train of thought to those who are optimistic over aerial transatlantic travel. The engineer of the great airship and the mascot, shown herewith, do not seem to have suffered very greatly from hardships on their memorable voyage.

RETURNED MEN DEMAND $2,000 FOR GRATUITY

Hold Big Meetings at Toronto and Agree Not to Accept a Less Amount.

(Special via G. T. P. Telegraphs.)
Toronto, Sept. 8.—Urgently demanding that a gratuity of $2,000 be paid to every returned man, a crowd of 5,000 returned soldiers gathered in Queens Park and pledged themselves to "sleep, eat and drink gratuity" until the Dominion Government granted their demands. The crowd agreed not to accept anything less than this sum since a compromise would show weakness.

The benefits mentioned on the placard calling the meeting was a smaller one. The notice advised soldiers to proceed to the Queens Park meeting with rifles and bayonets. Whether or not this was meant seriously, it was not followed.
