Suez Situation Easier Today

Egyptian Forces Keep Out of Range

CAIRO (CP) — Anti-British demonstrations flared up in Cairo again today but no serious incidents were reported.

Meanwhile Egyptian forces carefully kept out of range of strong British forces dug in along the Suez Canal. Britain now has more than 40,000 troops in the canal zone.

Egyptian police are again patrolling Port Said and Ismailia with the agreement of the British, indicating a quieter situation in the trouble area.

Defence Production Beginning to Mount

OTTAWA (CP) — Production Minister C. D. Howe on Friday told the House of Commons that the government's defence production schedule is being maintained and outlined a program which may result in government defence spending of $15,000,000,000 during the next twelve months.

In the Throne Speech debate, Mr. Howe said that, in addition, industry has planned to spend $2,500,000,000 for production of strategic materials in a five-year period from 1950 to 1955.

The minister said that Canada's rearmament effort is just emerging from the tooling stages and in the first six months of the 1951-52 fiscal year $1,222,000,000 of defence orders has been placed compared with $760,000,000 for all of last year.

With a total planned outlay of $5,000,000,000 for men and materials during a three-year period, the defence program calls for building of $1,250,000,000 of aircraft.

WEATHER

Synopsis

There has been a gradual improvement in coastal weather as the last of a series of Pacific storms crossed the mountains and moved through the interior. Over the interior, however, extensive cloudiness still persists and some rain is still falling in the southern sections while snow flurries are occurring in the central and northern sections.

The trend for Sunday indicates that conditions will remain fairly settled over the coast with considerable amounts of sunshine in most regions. The polar air will slide a little farther south in the interior but otherwise there will not be much change in these sections.

Fresh northwest winds will blow over the coast today, moderating tonight.

Forecast

North coast region — Cloudy today and tomorrow, sunny intervals both days. A few showers today. A little colder. Winds — northerly (15) except northwest (25) in exposed waters of southern sections today. Lows tonight and highs tomorrow — at Port Hardy, 42 and 52; Sandspit and Prince Rupert, 37 and 50.

Prince Philip Drives Engine

VANCOUVER (CP) — The royal train yesterday skirted mountain peaks, thundered down the western slopes of the Rockies, moved slowly through the Thompson and Fraser canyons and finally rolled into the green Fraser Valley and on to the sea this morning.

Prince Philip was at the throttle for 32 twisting miles from Notch Hill to Monte Creek.

Kamloops, at the confluence of the North and South Thompson rivers, was the last stop before Vancouver.

The cattle train's population tripled to nearly 30,000 for a one-hour stop.

Mayor Hume Breaks Arm

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Fred Hume fell and broke a bone in his arm late yesterday while rehearsing players for tonight's exhibition lacrosse game which will wind up a day-long program for Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The mayor, an ardent sportsman, had ordered that there should be no fisticuffs in the game between Vancouver Combines and New Westminster Commandos. The game itself should provide enough excitement for the royal pair.

Vancouver Gives Its Greatest Welcome to Touring Royal Couple

Commencement of Six-Day Visit to Pacific Coast Attended by Enthusiastic Scenes

VANCOUVER — Scenes of unrivalled enthusiasm marked the reception which this metropolis gave to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh today. The city's own cheering people in their hundreds of thousands were augmented by tens of thousands more from all parts of the southwestern corner of British Columbia as well as Seattle and elsewhere in the Pacific Northwest.

The city was in gay holiday attire and mood to give the royal couple a salute to the Pacific coast equal in ardor and enthusiasm to anything they have yet received in Canada. Their arrival here marks the commencement of a six-day visit to the Pacific coast. Tomorrow they will leave for Victoria to receive the official greetings of the province. A three-day holiday at Qualicum Beach next week will mark their stay on Vancouver Island.

The royal train arrived promptly on time at 10 o'clock from North Bend where it had spent the night following an hour's visit to Kamloops yesterday afternoon. At the flag-decked station Lieutenant Governor Clarence Wallace and Mrs. Wallace, Premier and Mrs. B. I. Johnson and Mayor and Mrs. F. J. Hume were on hand to be the first to greet them, being presented to Their Royal Highnesses by Hon. R. W. Mayhew, minister of fisheries, who represents the federal government and travels with the royal party during their visit to British Columbia.

It was not royalty under wraps here as it was in Calgary where furs and blankets were used to protect Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip from the wintry blasts. The weather man provided a comfortable temperature of 58 with a few showers and occasional sunny intervals — enough to enable the royal couple to discard winter finery.

After the royal salute and inspection of the guard of honor at the station, Their Royal Highnesses were soon on the move along Cordova, Granville, Hastings, Burrard streets and Twelfth Avenue to the City Hall. The procession of five cars, the

United States May Negotiate Iran Dispute

NEW YORK (CP) — Following the indefinite shoving yesterday by the United Nations Security Council of the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute, the next move in the explosive situation appears to be a new attempt by the United States to use its good offices toward settlement by direct negotiations.

The council climaxed a series of tense sessions by voting 8 to 1 yesterday for a French resolution withholding any action in the council until the International Court of Justice at The Hague rules whether the court itself has jurisdiction to intervene in the argument.

To Increase War Pensions

OTTAWA (CP) — The government told Canada's 160,000 war disability pensioners Friday that they are going to get increased pensions but left them guessing over the size of the hoist.

Veterans Minister Hugues Lapointe informed the House of Commons that legislation will be introduced at this session of Parliament to increase pension dates now totalling $100,000,000 a year.

George Drew, Progressive-Conservative leader, tried to determine the amount of the increase.

Mr. Lapointe said that the information will be supplied when the legislation is introduced, possibly in a couple of weeks.

The increases are expected to be at least twenty percent with possibly more than that for 20,000 war widows drawing pensions.

Race Fixing Is Alleged

PROVIDENCE, Rhode Island (CP) — Three jockeys and three other men were indicted by a grand jury Friday on charges of attempting to fix races at Lincoln Downs and Narragansett race tracks. Assistant Attorney General Francis J. Fallano described the fixing as country-wide in scope.

Princess Margaret was there as a guest at the wedding of the man Britain once thought she would marry. She attended along with the Queen.

Some women fainted and others wept as the bride, beautiful and 22, left fashionable St. Margaret's Church.

The groom married a girl from an untitled family. Her father directs a chain of book stores.

For his best man the Marquis had Margaret's latest suitor, Billy Wallace, son of the wealthy Mrs. Herbert Agar, wife of an American historian.

Boss Yields—Strike Grows

NEW YORK (CP) — Dock Boss Joseph R. Ryan, unable to control his rebel stevedores, is ready to join them in a wildcat tie-up of the vast port of New York, affecting more than fifty ships.

Now sparked by some of the men who fought it earlier, the strike spread Friday through a great part of the world's largest port.

Rebel leaders said "by Monday the entire port will be tied up."

The dockers went on strike to jettison a new contract which became effective October 1. They want to negotiate another one with "better wage, vacation and working clauses."

PRINCESS ELIZABETH, escorted by Hon. Ray Lawson, lieutenant-governor, enters the lieutenant-governor's suite at Queen's Park to attend a luncheon here by Mrs. Lawson. Prince Philip and Mrs. Lawson are seen at the left. The Duke of Edinburgh is seen at the right. The royal couple will arrive in Prince Rupert in a few minutes later to address a luncheon meeting of Toronto's Board of Trade on Saturday.

Norwegian Forestry Men Looking For Spruce Seed

Where British Columbia ends in the north is Norway begins in the south—a rough geographical comparison between two of the largest pulp forests of the world—and that is why Norway's are on B.C.'s northern forests.

Several Western European countries which import spruce seed from other countries, have found in 30 years of experimentation that northern Norway spruce is best for development on its own coast.

H. Heiberg, professor of forest and Tollef Ruden, director of the Forest Experiment Station in Oslo, Norway, have in an effort to locate the best spruce seed in the forest seeds.

But only a small part of Norway's reforestation plan depends on imported seeds. That country's own spruce and pine, which forms the major part of its lumber and pulp woods, have been cultured in plantations since the beginning of its reforestation policy.

Wherever the geographical conditions are suitable, one or the other species of tree is seeded and cultivated, so that Norway, as well as several other Scandinavian countries, notably Denmark, finds its forests in patches of different species throughout its domain.

UNDER MARSHALL PLAN
Mr. Heiberg and Mr. Ruden are visiting British Columbia for a month, part of a five-month tour of North America sponsored by the ECA (Marshall) plan. In Canada, not under ECA, their trip is sponsored directly by Norway.

The largest industry today in Norway of which raw materials are forests is manufacture of pulp and synthetic materials, in which it comes third in world export.

Norway's forests are 65 per cent privately owned; balance is owned by communities and the state. State laws, however, govern all forests, but there is little contravention of the laws, says Mr. Ruden.

"Our people know the value of trees. They respect them."

The striking difference both commissaries have seen between B.C. and their own country is the population factor. In Norway, people are scattered throughout the land, wherever there is a suitable plot for farming or a fjord to give shelter to fishermen.

"They were astonished to find hardly a soul living between here and Vancouver. In Norway, settlers make their living hundreds of miles inside the Arctic Circle.

"But if it wasn't for the trees, the people couldn't live there either," explained the Norwegians. "Those Arctic trees are not big and they don't grow thickly, but they provide fuel and shelter. Every tree in Norway is worthwhile."

Ted Williams For Sale—at Figure

BOSTON — The Boston Post newspaper says that Ted Williams is on the block but that his sale is unlikely. "The price is high," says the paper.

FAMILY WIPED OUT—Eight persons—an entire family—were killed when flames raced through a two-story frame house at Bronson, N.B. Only these ruins were left of the home of Alphonse Dupuis, 32, his wife, father and five small children, all of whom died in their beds. The little community is 35 miles from Fredericton.
