Wage Offer Is Refused

The Civic Employees' Union and Firemen's Union are not accepting the city's latest offer of a 10 percent increase in wages. Their demand is for 12 percent.

Mayor G. W. Rudderham, reporting for the wage committee to city council Tuesday, said the committee had met with Prince Rupert Fire Fighters' Association and R. Forgie, provincial government conciliation officer.

The city raised its offer from eight to 10 percent increase to meet half-way the demand of 12 percent, he said.

The firemen refused and have applied for a conciliation hearing. Their present salary scale is $235 a month and service pay, CEU, both outside and inside workers, have refused the offer. Their salary range, for inside workers, is $125 a month and up; for outside workers, $115 to $162 an hour.

Electrical workers, who also have been given the same increase offer, will reserve their decision until after their next meeting, April 3.

Alderman Pans Bus Service

A complaint that buses operated by Arrow Bus Lines are "dirty, overcrowded and a hazard" was lodged Tuesday by Ald. D. Gomez at city council meeting.

"The buses are so crowded at times that there isn't even room to stand properly. This is away beyond their capacity."

"It is dangerous because the buses are in such bad shape. It looks like they might roll over any time."

"And they are in dirty condition," he concluded.

Ald. T. B. Black suggested the transport committee approach the bus owners and lodge the complaint.

"They have no franchise, and they are operating under extreme conditions," he said, but allowed the service "left much to be desired."

If the owners would not take measures to rectify the conditions, it was contention of the council that complaint would be made to the Public Utilities Commission.

NIHILIST PROPAGANDA —Leslie Wismer, CCF member of the Ontario legislature, takes a close look at two busts in the Toronto Art Gallery he classed as "nihilist propaganda." The subject came up when the legislature was considering a $6,000 grant to the gallery. Mr. Wismer objected to the acquisition with public funds of "Woman's Head," by Picasso, left, and "Head of a Woman," by Matisse. The pair cost the gallery $1,936.73. "These things are hideous," said Mr. Wismer. "These people (the Art Gallery) are using art and the taxpayers' money to assist nihilism in destroying democracy and Christianity."
