Joe Louis Is Second

Rated "Logical Contender" For Heavyweight Crown

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CP)—Joe Louis, old and tired though he may be, is still rated as the only logical contender for Ezzard Charles' heavyweight title.

The National Boxing Association yesterday released its quarterly ratings and they show few standouts among the heavyweights.

Louis is the only one listed as a logical contender.

The National Boxing Association also rated only two fighters, Rex Layne of Utah and apparently indestructible Jersey Joe Walcott, as deserving the description of "outstanding boxers."

Lee Savold, defeated by Louis recently, wound up among the also-rans with honorable mention.

Frank Sedgman of Australia and his Davis Cup teammate, Ken McGregor, won the men's doubles by downing Eric Sturgess of South Africa and Jaroslav Droby of Egypt 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, 3-6 and 6-3.

Four Down in Channel Plunge

LONDON (CP)—A privately-owned Swiss plane, carrying four passengers, crashed into the English Channel today on a flight from Switzerland to Lymington, England.

The plane was piloted by its owner, Ernest Mueller, stamp dealer. His son and two other Swiss were passengers.

End of Royalty Takes Over To Prince Rupert's Exhibition

Royalty took over at the Prince Rupert exhibition last night and it was a colorful scene with the regal dais at the Civic Centre auditorium.

Elaine Steffens, pretty and popular Sons of Norway candidate, was crowned by J. D. McRae, MLA.

In turn, officiated at the coronation of the Juniors King and Queen, Loraine Berg and Arnold Wick.

A parade in which the Prince Rupert City Band and Job's Daughters' drill team participated from the Post Office to the Civic Centre preceded the coronation.

Leading the royal party to the stage was the band, followed by marching Job's Daughters who lined the aisle as guard of honor. Flag bearers formed an archway under which passed the royal princesses. Then Queen Elaine followed.

On the stage, junior attending princesses were Valerie Pihera, 3, and Susan Stewart, 3. Attending prince who bore the queen's crown on a royal cushion was Rolly McLeod, 4.

Costuming of Queen Elaine and her princesses was by Annette with Peebles Dickens in charge.

The queen was lovely in pale blue nylon marquisette with stole over which she gracefully donned the traditional purple velvet robe with ermine trim. With crown and sceptre she was indeed a regal figure. Her coronal bouquet was of yellow, pink and white carnations and chrysanthemums.

Princess Mae (Newton) wore a taffeta off the shoulder model of pastel green, carrying a colonial bouquet of white chrysanthemums and pink carnations.

Princess Margaret Gagnon had yellow net marquisette with similar colonial bouquets.

Both the princesses wore golden coronets.

Mrs. M. O. Kullander directed the arrangements and routine of the junior court.

Attending the royal party were Wolf Cub Patrol members Bryan Thom and Alfred Hunter, their uniforms and poise adding to the color of the ceremony.

Many hundreds of people crowded the auditorium to witness the feature event of Prince Rupert's Industrial and Natural Resources Exhibition.

This is an outgrowth of the recent trial of Archbishop Gresez. Charges of working against the Communist regime were made against American legion officials in that case.

The Hungarians demanded recall of three officials and the closing of the United States library and movie and musical activities.

Drag Fishing Fee Unchanged

OTTAWA (CP)—While the licence fee for trawlers operating in the Canadian fishing industry is reduced from $25 to $5, no change has been made in the licence fee for draggers. It remains at $5 for vessels up to 65 feet in length and $15 for those over 65 feet.

The trawler fee is collected when an operating licence is issued to trawlers of 100 feet or more.

Red Sox In Boom

NEW YORK (CP)—Boston Red Sox, pre-season American League pennant favorites, climbed to within a game of the top Friday night as Lefty Mel Parnell turned back the league-leading New York Yankees 6 to 2.

Despite the loss, the Yanks clung to the lead by seven percentage points over the runner-up Chicago White Sox.

Chicago split a double-header with the last place St. Louis Browns. The Sox won the opener 4 to 3 but bowed to the Browns ace, Ned Garver, 4 to 1 in the second.

Coming to Prince Rupert Because Rainfall Lower

Ocean Falls "Company Town" but "Little Different"

BY BRIAN TOBIN IN VICTORIA TIMES

OCEAN FALLS.—Residents of this pulp and paper town are in a position to pay Prince Rupert a compliment such as few other localities can. People from Ocean Falls to Prince Rupert with the avowed intention of living "somewhere where it doesn't rain so much." It's a gesture which the people of the northern port appreciate.

Ocean Falls' annual 166-inch rainfall makes their 96 inches of rain a year seem dry in comparison (Victoria, with less than 37 inches, is hopelessly out of the running—and you haven't seen real running until you hit Ocean Falls on a summer evening.)

The people of the community are deeply conscious of their meteorological leadership. They meet you with an apology for their weather but they cannot keep the pride out of their voices. They will mention the rain several times during your short stay. They bid you goodbye with a final comment on the weather, and their personal forecast for the next few days: rain.

Whereas a Victorian will excuse a bad day by saying, "Pity you came today—the first rainy day in two weeks"; a true Ocean Falls man will say: "Pity you came today; we had a fine sunny day only two weeks ago."

After all, it's just a matter of emphasis.

Killed in Training

CENTRALIA, Ont. (CP)—One Royal Canadian Air Force flying instructor was killed and three escaped unhurt following a four-plane mid-air collision of Harvard training planes yesterday near here.

Name of the dead pilot was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The planes are thought to have "slid" together during manoeuvres.

The day previous, near Trenton, two airmen were killed in the crash of another Harvard trainer.

In the Trenton accident the Harvard-type training plane exploded in mid-air and crashed near Wooler, 15 miles from Trenton.

Officials at Trenton air base identified the men as Flying Officer Bruce H. Hoggins, 29, of Winnipeg and Toronto, instructor, and Flying Officer James A. Brown, 32, North Bay and Sudbury, student at Trenton flying school. They said the men were on a routine training flight when the crash occurred.

About 100 persons were injured. There were cries of "Death to Anglo-American imperialism" and counter-cries of "Death to Communists."

British Atom Head Resigns

LONDON (CP)—Resignation of Lord Portal, Britain's atomic energy controller, was announced in the House of Lords yesterday as the government was criticized for allowing its atom bomb program to fall behind Russia's.

A spokesman for the Ministry of Supply, said Lord Portal, wartime commander of the Royal Air Force, now "has work of his own that he would like to do."

However, Lord Cherwell, wartime adviser to Winston Churchill, told the Lords that Lord Portal was displeased by the mass of red tape and lack of progress in the government's present atomic energy organization.

NO DIFFERENT

"A company town isn't any different from any other town," he says. "When I want to speak my piece here, I do it, just as I would anywhere else. Visitors seem to think we should all be rich up here because there's nowhere much to spend our money. But we've like every other town in that regard, too. It's just as hard to save here as any other place."

The cost of living in Ocean Falls is no higher, however. A recent check in answer to complaints showed that the local store sells articles for the same or lower prices than obtain in Vancouver.

A tour through the plant is impressive. One sees big blocks of balsam, hemlock and spruce being reduced by spinning 5000-pound stones to groundwood pulp for newsprint. They see other wood in the form of chips being cooked in huge digesters to produce sulphite or sulphate pulp, the basic material of fine white papers or heavy brown wrapping papers, respectively. And they see the finished product being spun through dryers and collected in the form of huge rolls for shipment to market.

Some 280 tons of newsprint a day can be produced here, as well as 60,000 tons annually of pulp for treatment elsewhere. A large board in the shipping room gives an idea of the destinations: Victoria, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Australia among them.
