UN Sees Something Wrong in Russian Chess Game

TOKYO (CP)—General headquarters said in effect Saturday that Russian strategy was responsible for the Korean war but something went wrong with the Reds' chess game. The declaration was in the form of a long statement issued by the Civil Information and Education section of general headquarters.

Strongly worded, it ended with the statement that the "Reds have been so busy looking for cracks in the structure of the democracies that they have not noticed the perch of the Soviet empire is swaying and slowly crumbling."

Power Commission Enters QC Islands

Skidegate Inlet Area To Be Served With $147,717 Diesel-Electric Investment

The British Columbia Power Commission is entering Prince Rupert district for the first time with the establishment of a diesel-electric generating plant and distribution system to serve the areas of Queen Charlotte City, Skidegate and Skidegate Mission on Graham Island of the Queen Charlotte group.

J. D. McRae, MLA for Prince Rupert, who has worked for two years with a view to having the service provided, has received word from Premier Byron Johnson of the passing of an order-in-council providing for a total expenditure of $147,717 including $92,500 for construction of a diesel-electric generating plant at Queen Charlotte City and an electrical distribution system to serve the areas at an estimated cost of $55,217.

First step in the new undertaking will be the clearing of a right-of-way between Queen Charlotte City and Skidegate mission. Actual construction is expected by fall.

Mr. McRae received the news with much gratification. "It will be a great boon to the people of the islands," he said, "and should make the area more interesting for prospective settlers and industry."

It is believed this will be the first time that the B.C. Power Commission has served a native village. Skidegate Mission is a native village. Queen Charlotte City and Skidegate are white communities—centres of lumbering and fishing activity.

Communists Coming Over

Reds Celebration in Berlin Being Attended by Desertions

BERLIN —Troubles began today for the Communist "Third World Youth Festival for Peace" in East Berlin when some of its delegates deserted to the West even before the shows of the formal opening tomorrow.

Fifty blue-shirted young East German Communists came over to Allied West Berlin to ask for asylum, the first of what observers expect to be a substantial stream during the two-week festival.

Mishaps on This Coast

SEATTLE (CP)—Marine mishaps that plagued the Pacific coast today brought death to at least two persons.

One small craft was sunk and four more were damaged while another may have sunk in a series of accidents from British Columbia to Mexico.

The Los Angeles Coastguard reported the fishing vessel Sea Wolf sank five miles off the South Coronado Islands, off the Mexican coast.

Two ship collisions in British Columbia and Washington waters claimed two lives, heavily damaged a tanker and freighter and sent a tug to the bottom.

One man was killed when the tanker Tullahoma and the freighter P. and T. Adventurer collided off the northwest tip of Washington state. Both vessels were severely damaged.

Another man was missing after collision of two tugs in bad weather off the British Columbia coast.

The 97-foot tug Andrew Foss went down after collision with the tug Maccloufay. Eight members of the nine-man crew were saved.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Collins and daughter, Lynn, returned to the city last night from a three weeks' motor holiday trip to Vancouver and the Okanagan.

Mr. McKinnon is a retired CNR employee.

Body Found On Rose Spit

Grim Discovery by Halibut Fisherman Who Went Ashore for Stroll

Unclad body of a so far unidentified man was found on Wednesday of this week on the beach on the east side of Rose Spit about one mile from its tip by George Kelly of Port Simpson who arrived last evening with the halibut boat Cape Race II to report the grim finding to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Further investigation is being conducted by the RCMP officer at Masset who proceeded to the scene to pick up the body and establish identity if possible. The officer's search last evening was unavailing but he is out again today making another hunt.

It is believed that the body may have been that of a fisherman who might have been lost from a boat. There have been more than one such incidents of late.

The body was in a fair state of preservation although it had been lying in the hot sun. It may not have been there long.

Kelly had been fishing and went ashore for a stroll along the beach. Presence of birds led him to the grim find.

Split Season Ends Tonight

First halibut from Area No. 2C, between Dixon's Entrance and Cape Spencer, was landed today from the American vessel Swift II which brought in 26,000 pounds. Mostly American vessels are operating in that area although there are a few Canadian.

Canadians are concentrated in Area 2B in the south of Hecate Straits where fishing is reported "spotty." Sometimes a boat will get a large haul and not far away will find few fish. There were eight boats in from there today.

Other fish is being brought in direct from the banks by packers.

International Fisheries Commission offices have been unable, so far, to form an accurate estimate as to how much fish the "split" season may be yielding.

The season closes tonight at midnight.

Following his official visit to the local lodge last evening, J. Murray Mitchell, Masonic Grand Master for British Columbia, is leaving on Monday for Smithers to pay a similar visit to the lodge there.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Dale of Terrace are sailing tomorrow night on the Coquitlam for Vancouver.

Ontario Slavery Recalled by Will

WHITEBY, Ont. —"My will therefore is that she be released and thereby accordingly release manumitted (set free) and discharge her, said Dorinda and all and every of her said children both male and female from slavery and declare them and every of theirs to be free."

In those words with their "Uncle Tom's Cabin" flavor one Robert Isaac Gray, a farmer in Ontario county, recognized the faithful services of his slaves and set them free.

The record of this act, that seems more like an event from the history of the southern United States than from the background of Oshawa, Ont., is contained in one of the oldest and most unique wills on file in the Ontario county registry office at Whitby.

It recalls the days of Upper Canada when the organization and boundaries of the country were not as they are today—and when freedom was not for all persons.

Farmer Gray died 90 years ago leaving a large acreage of land and bequeathing freedom to his slaves. His will remains in a fair state of preservation and contains the following clauses:

"In consequence of the long and faithful services of Dorinda my blackwoman servant rendered to my family and to release, manumit and discharge her from the state of slavery in which she now is and to give her and all her children their freedom My will therefore is that she be released . . ."

"In order that provision may be made for the support of the said Dorinda and her children, and that she may not want after my decease, my will is that I hereby empower my executor out of my real estate to raise the sum of £1,200 and place the same in some solvent and secure fund and the interest arising from the same I give and bequeath to the said Dorinda and heirs and assigns forever to be paid annually."

"I also give and devise to John, my other black servant, and his heirs forever two hundred acres of land . . . I also give Simon and John £50 each."

The land referred to by the testator is now incorporated in the city of Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hood, who have been visiting here with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hood, are sailing by the Coquitlam tomorrow night on their return to Vancouver.

Mr. D. R. Barclay is sailing tomorrow night on the Coquitlam for Vancouver to pay a visit with her daughter.

To Tighten Up Atlantic Defence

LONDON —The Western Big Three are reported to have agreed on quick action to plug two wide gaps in their Atlantic defence system in the Middle East and Germany.

Official sources say that the United States, Great Britain and France have called for two meetings of the Atlantic Pact foreign and defence ministers within the next seventy days to:

1. Consider and probably approve Turkish and Greek claims for membership in the North Atlantic Treaty organization.
2. To set up a new Middle East defence board under British command to be linked with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.
3. Greenlight for a military role for Germany in western defence.

WEATHER

Synopsis

This is the 52nd day without measurable precipitation at the Vancouver airport and there is still no indication of any immediate relief in the current dry spell. A quarter of an inch of rain fell over the northern coast and on the north and west coast of Vancouver Island as the leading edge of a moist Pacific air mass pushed slowly into those areas yesterday evening and during the night. Some cloudiness will drift into the lower mainland during the day but the disturbance appears to have weakened to the point where no appreciable precipitation is likely to follow.

A few showers will occur in the central interior while the southern interior valleys remain sunny and warm.

Forecast

North Coast Region—Cloudy today and Sunday. A few scattered showers today. Sunny periods mostly during the afternoons. Little change in temperature. Winds westerly (20) in the exposed areas of the Queen Charlottes and light elsewhere. Low tonight and high Sunday—At Port Hardy, Sandspit and Prince Rupert, 50 and 65.

Mrs. E. Berry is sailing tomorrow night on the Coquitlam for a trip to Vancouver.

Government to Import Butter

OTTAWA —The government Friday banned butter imports by private trade and appointed itself sole importing agent with power to buy up to 20,000,000 pounds against the possibility of a butter shortage next winter.

The government also held out hope that it may indirectly and temporarily boost a 58c a pound floor price on butter to entice a few thousand pounds into empty government larders.

Want Line Far North

TOKYO—United Nations cease fire negotiators in Korea indicated yesterday that the present fighting zone north of the 38th parallel is no longer considered satisfactory as the line of demarcation for a buffer zone. The United Nations are now insisting on well to the north of the present fighting line which is held to be not safe enough. The United Nations point to the fact that they are already in control of North Korea clear to the Manchurian border by virtue of sea and air.

The nineteenth cease-fire talk today again failed to result in agreement on a buffer zone. The delegates are meeting again today.

Lost From Coast Ship At Ketchikan

Body of Young Ottawa Woman, Prince George Passenger, Picked Up

Loss of a young Ottawa woman, Constance McKeen, 26, was reported here by the steamer Prince George as she arrived last night from an Alaska cruise. She was missed from the ship on failing to turn up for lunch on Friday. Capt. E. B. Caldwell messaged back to Ketchikan to find if she had been left behind there. Authorities at Ketchikan advised the ship that a body answering the description of Miss McKeen and with confirming identification marks had been picked up in Tongass Narrows near Ketchikan.

RCMP at Prince Rupert took charge of the young woman's effects consisting of two suitcases and travelling clothing hanging in her room.

The body is at Ketchikan. Miss McKeen had last been seen at midnight Thursday aboard ship. She did not come down for breakfast but no anxiety was felt at that time because she had not been coming down for the morning meal.

Her stateroom had been occupied Thursday night. Anxiety was aroused when she failed to appear for the noon meal.

The young woman is believed to have been employed by the federal government at Ottawa. She was travelling alone.
