Blackwood on Bridge
 By Easley Blackwood
 For some reason the technique of suit establishment has never been covered in the textbooks. Surely the establishing (or setting up) of a suit or suits is a common enough practice.

The necessity for it occurs many times in every session of bridge. Perhaps that is why it has not been considered a separate "subject."

But the practice does pose many questions and your percentage of right answers to those questions as they come up will determine whether you are expert, good, fair—or whether you play like Mr. Muzzy.

Some of these questions are: Which suit to establish (where there is a choice), how to establish it (by ruffing?, by finessing?, etc.), when to establish it (before trumps are taken out, or after). I hope the following series of articles will increase your winning percentage.

Mrs. Keen led the king of diamonds against Miss Brash's four heart contract and continued with the eight of diamonds when Mr. Muzzy signalled enthusiastically with the jack.

Mr. Muzzy won the second trick with the ace of diamonds. If he had shifted to a club at this point Miss Brash would have found it impossible to avoid the loss of a club and a spade for three one.

But at trick three Mr. Muzzy blithely returned the six of diamonds. "Take 'em in, partner," he shouted happily. (Good heavens, did the man expect to run four or five tricks in the suit?)

In any case Miss Brash ruffed and then laid down the ace and queen of hearts, leaving the king on the board. Then she led the king of spades.

Mr. Muzzy won with the ace and shot back a club. But it was too late. Miss Brash went up with the ace of clubs and parked her two other clubs on dummy's established spades.

Miss Brash's technique was very good. Note that if she had taken out all of the enemy's trumps, Mr. Muzzy could have shut her out of dummy by refusing to win the first spade led. You don't think he would have known enough to lay off the king of spades? Don't be too sure.

It's another case of a little knowledge being a dangerous thing. He has seen Mr. Champion make this play and he admires it very much. I think he would have ducked the first spade.

In fact he probably would have ducked the second spade lead, too, in which case Miss Brash would have lost no tricks in the suit.

But regardless of what might have happened, Miss Brash played the hand perfectly and gave herself every chance.

 JUNEAU—Col. Earl Landreath, director of civil defence for the territory has given warning that war can come to Alaska.

Speaking here of the possibility of an attack on Juneau, the following, he said, is what might reasonably be expected:

"Immediately, a series of fires would appear all over town. Some buildings might be flattened. There would be danger from falling debris. People would be trapped in buildings. Water mains and streets would be broken and disrupted. Telephone wires would be smashed. Schools and hospitals might be hit."

EX-COWBOY — From cowboy to lawyer to minister is the story of Rev. Dr. T. Wardlaw Taylor, who is marking his 26th year as clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Dr. Taylor rode the western range in the pioneering days of the 1880's and was a lawyer for eight years before going into the church. Ordained by the Calgary Presbytery in 1902, his first charge was at Banff, Alta. Later he went to New Westminster, B.C., Toronto, Vancouver and St. Andrew's By-the-Sea, N.B. He was appointed clerk in 1925 and hasn't missed a session since.

WOULD HELP IN Event of War
 REGINA — Suggestions were made at meetings of farmers' organizations that, in the event of war, the farmers decline to give their support to the war effort as a protest. This stand, however, is not representative. An entirely different attitude was expressed by a greater number of grain growers and ranchers, particularly in Alberta. If there is to be war they will be in it.

Dorreen Mill Nearly Ready
 Mill operations at Dorreen Mines Ltd., 120 miles east of Prince Rupert, will be under way by the end of August, officials announce.

C. W. S. Tremaine has been appointed consulting mining engineer following the recent death of W. L. Norrie-Loewenthal, M.E., on whose recommendation the current program was initiated.

Mr. Tremaine is back in Vancouver after spending two weeks at the property with two directors. Located on the CNR, Dorreen is a gold-silver-lead-zinc mine.

During the past two months all phases of the pre-production program have been brought close to completion, including construction of a 3000-foot aerial tram from mine to mill.

Mr. Tremaine has laid out an extensive development program and directors have approved provision of additional compressor capacity to take care of mining, milling and the development of additional ore sources.

Easy Way For Class Credits
 CALGARY (CP)—A busload of teen-agers from the Florida summer school are earning their classroom credits the easy way—they're spending five weeks travelling in western United States and Canada.

The students, who reminded residents of their visit here by flying the "Battle Flag" of the Confederate States of America over their high school dormitory, started their tour June 16.

The trip, under the care of three chaperones, will earn them two school credits. W. L. Roney, owner of the summer school, has been sending out the excursions for 14 years. His aim is to show the students what the places they study about are really like.

In addition to visiting the historical and scenic sites, in cities they visit, the youthful travellers are able to stock up on souvenirs.

Armed with several ukeleles and lousy voices, they make their own entertainment while on the road.

As bus driver V. N. Blalock commented: "They're noisy, but nice."
