Adventure On Alaska Road

The Alaska Highway is the most adventuresome motor trip on the continent, says Ronald Schiller in the February Reader's Digest. Even on flat land the road twists into hairpin curves. In rough terrain it goes up and down like a roller coaster. Sometimes clinging to the sides of cliffs 400 feet high, it turns sharply without warning, giving rear-seat passengers the stomach-gripping sensation of taking off into space. There is not a guard rail in its entire length.

The 1523 miles of the Highway between Dawson Creek, B.C. and Fairbanks, Alaska, are not, however, quite as rugged as they were a few years ago. It is no longer necessary to take along food, camping equipment and extra gas. Lodges, garages and stores have opened up at intervals of 50 to 100 miles along the route. You'd better have at least six good tires, however.

You should observe, too, the ancient law of the Yukon that no one may withhold help from anyone who needs it. If you drive by a car in a ditch without offering assistance you may find that no lodging is available to you anywhere along the Highway.

Though many more tourists flock the Highway in summer, the road in winter is in better condition. Buried under soft-packed snow and kept clear by plows, it provides a smooth surface. Weatherproof, 35-passenger buses maintain their usual three-times-a-week schedules. Drivers fear not the intense cold but the warm Chinook wind from the Pacific that melts the snow and makes the Highway a ribbon of ice.

The scenery is on an epic scale, the article says, and the whole country is a "gigantic menagerie." Big game, including caribou, moose, bears and wolves, is frequently seen.

MINOR DETAIL

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. — Organizers of the Canterbury Centennial Games made great arrangements, but forgot one detail. On opening day it was found no ticket boxes had been installed. Boxes were obtained in a hurry shortly before the crowds were due.

FRANCOIS LAKE

The weather continues pleasant and, although the nights are cold the days are bright and mild. The roads are excellent and cars and trucks are travelling round the head of the lake.

Rev. Atkinson did not take the corner at Peterson's sharply enough on his way home to Burns Lake from services here and at Colleymount on Sunday and ploughed into the snow. The car was so deeply bogged that a tractor was needed to pull it out.

Bobby and Everett Jeffrey have returned after having been away for four years in the United States. They drove up by car.

Matthew Nobles has been staying with the Beaver family for a week while the lake was unsafe to cross on foot. He attends school in Burns Lake.

Stan Wilkins, inspector of Social Security and Municipal Aid Tax, Charles Bond, regional representative of B.C. Hospital Insurance, were in the district on business on Friday.

WRONG UNIFORM

CROYDON, England — Sir Harold Scott, commissioner of police, was standing in front of a London hotel in uniform when a woman tapped him on the shoulder and asked him to call a taxi. Then she looked more closely and said: "Sorry; of course you are St. John Ambulance."

The Reliable Evaporated Milk

Good for Baby—Good for Everybody

Millions of contented babies are fed Carnation. Ask your doctor about Carnation Milk for your baby. It's the milk every doctor knows.

And whenever you use Carnation Milk — undiluted in place of cream or diluted half-and-half with water for every whole milk use — note its unvarying richness, superlative uniformity, and delicious creaminess.

The producers of fine Carnation Milk accept only high grade, pure, whole cows' milk. Just water is removed in the evaporation process. The milk with the red and white Carnation label is always velvet-smooth, rich-flavored — so safe and so dependable.
