pected to be provided at Port Elizabeth, Cape Province, where a motorcycle club was warned by police not to go ahead with a race advertised for Sunday. The club ignored the warning, and police then took the names of organizers and race riders. After this action several industrial firms contributed toward a "defence fund" for the bike riders.

Catholic Bazaar "Real" Success

Ladies Well Pleased With
Results of Two-Day Affair

A gala two-day bazaar, featuring the sale of handwork and culinary achievements of many women, ended yesterday and the Catholic women's League feels the occasion was a "real success."

Eight booths set up in the newly decorated Catholic Hall lent an atmosphere of the market place but for the youngsters at least the fish pond was the centre of attraction.

Throughout the afternoon many eager little fishermen lined up to try their skill with the rod to land "that big one."

Following the excitement of marketing, a restful contrast was revealed in the new committee room where amidst a profusion of flowers donated by Mrs. C. P. Balagno, refreshments were served.

Evening entertainment was augmented by the bingo booth, operated by the Holy Name Society, which had many patrons and "a winner every time."

Grand raffle last night was the climatic end of the event, with first prize going to Mrs. O. Vaccher, ticket 1193, a needle-point fireplace bench.

A pair of Hudson's Bay blankets, as second prize, was won by Mr. M. L. Cloutier, ticket 346.

A Toronto visitor came in for third prize with ticket 1681. Frank Hamp won the steam iron. Final prize of $25 in cash was won by Mr. Sydney Alexander with ticket 3470.

Following were those who assisted with the bazaar:

Tea room—Mrs. J. Forman and Mrs. G. E. Lyons, convenors; Mrs. Art Murray, Mrs. E. Clausen, Mrs. C. Eales, Mrs. A. E. Smith and Mrs. N. J. Gairbraith, assistants. Servitors—Misses Betty Oskey and Lorraine Smith.

Pouring—Mrs. C. P. Balagno, Mrs. J. L. Blain, Mrs. S. Turcott and Mrs. F. St. Amour.

Cashiers—Miss Polly Astoria and Mrs. Balagno. Hot dog stand was in charge of Mrs. J. A. Smith, assisted by Mrs. Steve Dumas, Mrs. N. McArthur, Mrs. R. Sprinkle and Misses Beatrice and Lena Dumas.

Home Cooking—Mrs. D. Mulroney, convenor; Mrs. P. Richards, Mrs. F. Dumas, Mrs. T. Fortune, Mrs. J. Cloutier and Mrs. L. Smith, assistants.

"Strawberry King" of Bulkley Valley and Well Trained Dog

By EVANGELINE VANN

HOUSTON.—Turning off the highway, seven miles from Houston, going west, in the Barrett district, winding upwards through bushes of scarlet rose-hips and yellowing cottonwood trees, with a backdrop of vivid blue sky, I found the cabin of Bob Eichenberger, "The Strawberry King."

There, "For so long, a man forgets," far away from his native Switzerland, but overlooking the beautiful Bulkley Valley and the Telkwa Range, with Morrice Mountain to the left, Bob has made his home.

On the wall, was the skin of a timber wolf, shot a few days ago, waiting for the Game Warden to come and punch one ear and pay the bounty of twenty-five dollars. Asking what he would do with the skin, Bob answered: "I hear the U.S. Army up north is buying wolf skins for parkas," and added: "This one is a pup born last spring, you can tell by its teeth, and it is small in body, only about seven-five pounds, although fully grown. Its parents would probably weigh one hundred and twenty-five pounds. I have shot two or three every winter, for four winters now, I set traps on the river for minnows, and for weasel, just any place.

Looking round at the five stuffed heads on the wall, Bob remarked: "I shoot deer at the end of October, when the meat will keep. I learned how to stuff them by reading. It's a hobby."

"How about the strawberries Bob?" "Nineteen thirty-five it was, I think. I was coming up the field, when I saw some large strawberry leaves. Too big to be wild ones, must be tame ones," I thought. So I stuck some runners out in the plough, and every spring I ploughed a little more, and now I have two acres. Three years ago I had ten tons. People come from as far as Moricetown and Smithers, and Burns Lake to pick them.

"If it's poor skiing I get no visitors in the winter, but my partner, Gypsy, is here. She came to me through the snow on a hunting trip in '45. I thought she was a little fox and she has been with me since. "Go, and see if there is a bear out there!" Gypsy vanished through the door barking.

"What time is it?" I asked, rising to go. "Gypsy can tell you," Bob volunteered. "What time is it, Gypsy?" and she disappeared through the curtains of the bedroom, bringing Bob's watch. "Come again," I was invited.

SHIPS AND WATERFRONT

B. C. Steamships freighter Alaska Prince was in port this morning discharging cargo here. The vessel sails on her return south after discharging.

CPR freighter Yukon Princess, Capt. John Campbell, under charter to Frank Waterhouse line, was at Watson Island this morning unloading cargo. After unloading there, the vessel sailed for Stewart, Alice Arm and Swagway.

As I stepped out into the unbelievably brilliant scene, "I surely will, maybe in strawberry time," and left him to finish a meal of corn, which he had grown on the ledge, away from the frosts of the flat. A gentle wind stirred the light windmill on the house, as I descended the hill to the flat.
