DAILY EDITION. Wednesday, Sept. 24, 1919.

Soldiers' Housing is Good for the City.

Just what the city would have done without the money under the housing scheme does not appear. Already there are something like a dozen residences going up under the plan and within a few weeks there will be thirty. These houses will help a good deal in providing for those who cannot get a place to live.

Both the Dominion and Provincial Governments deserve some credit for having provided the money. The Dominion raised the loan and handed it over to the Province to expend under an outlined plan. The Provincial Government decided that the returned men should have the first opportunity at British Columbia's share and finding that the need in Prince Rupert was greater than at some places, allocated a large share here. According to population we should have received about $18,000, but so far we have been granted $75,000 and may get another $25,000. Possibly having the local member in the cabinet has helped somewhat in having our claims laid forcibly and effectively before the Government.

Proposal to Lay Macadam on Streets.

There is some doubt whether tar macadam is the best paving for the local streets. It answers very well where the traffic is light but where rain and frost alternate it is almost impossible to keep it solid in the winter. A good deal of repair work is necessary.

In Victoria it has been used with good results on some streets and on others it has been a complete failure. What they have found most economical has been a good grade of asphalt or mineral rubber. Yates Street, in that city, has been laid about ten years and is still good although it is beginning to show a slight tendency to get "dippy" and a few holes have broken through. It looks good for another five years, however, and the traffic is very heavy on that street. Creosoted wood blocks do not last more than about seven years under similar conditions.

In Oak Bay municipality tar macadam was used almost exclusively, and on the ordinary side street has stood the wear well. On streets where there is heavy traffic, however, it has given way and has had to be repaired often.

In Esquimalt the main thoroughfare seems like an ordinary old gravel road, oiled, and it is usually in good condition, often just as good as the tar macadam streets.

In Prince Rupert the number of automobiles and delivery wagons is increasing steadily as well as trucks. These are hard on a road and when the nights are frosty and the days warm the tendency of the surface of the road is to loosen up and break. Whether the tar macadam would stand the strain long is very uncertain. It is probable that it would need repair about the third or fourth year, whereas asphalt should last for from fifteen to twenty years. Before either is laid, however, it should be seen that all water laterals, sewers and other pipes or drains, if there are any, are put in. It is impossible to dig up a hard road without spoiling it.

One day a friend told me to try 'Fruit-a-tives'. To my surprise, I found this medicine gave immediate relief, and in a short time I was all right again".
