

Kinsmen Plan For Christmas

Kinsmen's Christmas party at the Civic Centre December 21 will include all city children who are able to attend.

Finalize "Over Seventy" Dinner

Women's Co-ordinating Council, meeting Wednesday in the Civic Centre with Mrs. T. Norton Youngs, president, in the chair, made final arrangements for the annual "Over Seventy Dinner" when worthy pioneers of the city will foregather during the festive season to enjoy a bounteous repast and reminiscence on the joys of yore.

Legion Card Party Enjoyed

Twelve tables were in play at an enjoyable Canadian Legion card party Wednesday night. Winners were: Bridge—Mrs. Thomas Beattie and Mrs. W. E. Chapple. Cribbage—Mrs. Larsen and O. K. Olsen.

Candidates To be Heard

A meeting on the air will be sponsored tonight by Prince Rupert Junior Chamber of Commerce at which time candidates for mayor and aldermen will be given opportunity to speak on their behalf.

Later in the evening Kinsmen visit Miller Bay Hospital, where Santa will deliver presents to the hospitalized children.

Denny Thain's Brother Dean

Rev. A. E. Thain, brother of H. D. Thain, formerly city clerk at Prince Rupert and now at Port Alberni, has been appointed dean of St. James Cathedral at Peace River in the Anglican diocese of Athabaska by the Bishop, Rt. Rev. Reginald Pierce.

"Wonder if he can really read music?" "She can't sing very well, but she IS very pretty..." "I'll be darned if I know why I let her drag me to these things!"

Bea Rudderham, Daughter of Late Mayor, Dainty Bride

Miss Dorothy Beatrice Rudderham, daughter of Mayor the late G. W. Rudderham and Mrs. Rudderham, became the bride of Robert A. Breaks, well-known local young fisherman and son of J. T. Breaks the late Mrs. Breaks of New Westminster, at a wedding ceremony of outstanding interest which took place Wednesday evening at 7:30 in First United Church, Rev. L. G. Sieber officiating.

Many Attend Church Bazaar

Three Circle groups (Conrad, Amacitia and Crosby) of the Women's Auxiliary to the United Church joined in presenting a very successful fall bazaar and tea on Thursday afternoon.

The bazaar was opened by L. G. Sieber and the many guests, who were received by D. R. Barclay and Mrs. L. Sieber, found the hall charmingly decorated in the seasonal theme. Each small tea-table bore a red or green candle nestled in evergreen and a beautifully decorated Christmas tree was bright with lights.

Mr. H. Thom was in charge of the team room and her services were Mrs. W. Dunn, Mrs. Girardet, Mrs. R. Irvine, Mrs. Dolphin, Mrs. O. R. Green, Mrs. R. Pollock and Mrs. A. K. Pearson.

The refreshments were prepared by Mrs. G. W. Graham, assisted by Mrs. Carlson, Mrs. Young, Mrs. E. Anderson and Mrs. A. G. Bussanich.

Cashiers were Mrs. J. S. Irvine and Mrs. R. W. Large. A fancy work stall, which featured some lovely handwork, was in charge of Mrs. D. Santer, assisted by Mrs. P. Berg and Mrs. C. Martineau.

Many practical and attractive articles were offered at the stall, including aprons and plain sewing. The stall was presided over by Mrs. A. Logan who was assisted by Mrs. P. Forman, Mrs. F. Huber and Mrs. E. Pedersen.

The popular home cooking stall was in charge of Mrs. A. Thompson assisted by Mrs. A. Dominato and Mrs. M. Heise. Two groups of young girls also assisted with the bazaar. They were directed by Miss Anita Stewart. The CGIT group was in charge of the candy stall, and a younger group of girls, the "Explorers," was in charge of the fish pond so popular with the youngest shoppers.

James Nichol, immigration officer here, left last night for Victoria for a few months' official services there. Victoria offices are being moved to new quarters and business is brisker than usual, the local office reports. Mr. Nichol will return to Prince Rupert.

TEAM WORK

Well, our equine friends above finally went to work the way they were meant to . . . as a team. And they were both better off in the long run, as a result.

In a sense, they characterize the power situation in Prince Rupert at the present time. Here's what we mean.

The citizens of Prince Rupert want as good power supply as possible, in a guaranteed quantity, and at a guaranteed price, the price as low as it feasibly can be.

And Northern British Columbia Power Company Limited wants to meet their requirements in all these respects, improving upon them wherever possible.

But, just as our cartoon horses were for a time, we are presently lacking in teamwork. We are lacking in teamwork to such an extent, that there appears to be a real danger of us breaking out of our "harness" and both coming out on the short end as the result.

We want to make it quite clear that we don't think for a moment that this "harness-breaking" is inevitable.

At the same time, we want to stress that we fully realize that this situation, characterized by the power referendum to be held on December 13th, is not the will of a majority of Prince Rupert's citizens. Nor do we believe that it stems from any neglect of duty on the company's part.

On the contrary, we realize that it has developed from the misunderstandings of the power situation as a result of the power situation being made a public issue by certain sponsors of the referendum.

But be that as it may, we can get back to vitally needed teamwork, by sweeping away these misunderstandings. Let's get about it quickly by examining the referendum situation.

Ask yourself if it's really fair to pose such a question before the Public Utilities Commission discloses its findings on our operations, and we think you'll have to honestly answer, "NO". Ask yourself if the referendum passes, are you guaranteed adequate future power at a lower and controlled price, and you get the answer "no".

Ask yourself if, in view of these conclusions, and others you most certainly will arrive at, you can honestly support the referendum, and you'll answer "NO".

Then add up all these negative answers to one big "NO" to mark on your referendum ballot on December 13th.
