Boost for Boxing Here

Elks' Club Taking Over
And Planning Active Season

For a long time "under the weather" in Prince Rupert, boxing got a substantial boost last night when the Elks Club announced it would sponsor the present unorganized boxing club.

Although no executive has been formed, Joe Ward, popular trainer of a handful of boxers, automatically fell into the slot of training master and matchmaker.

"With the support we'll be getting now, boxing should find a real place in organized sport in this city," said Ward today, "pleased as anything" that someone else has become actively interested in his hobby.

And already he is working on his first fight card, to be held this month-end, if possible.

A return match with the Morgan brothers of Kitwanga will be sought and a heavyweight Golden Gloves contender, Art Seiff, has been located at Masset whom Joe will pit against Prince Rupert's Glenn Carlson.

FROM PRINCE GEORGE

Prince George is to be the next source of competitors for Prince Rupert fighters, who are:

"Mouse" Morrison, Andy Marshall, Chuck Place and Chubby Stacey, in this year's Golden

Ore Laden Ship Calls in Port

Already laden with a substantial quantity of ore and concentrates picked up at various northern points, Frank Waterhouse freighter, Cassiar, Capt. William Gleason, was in port from 11:30 until 1:30 over midnight last night. Cargo already on the vessel included 190 tons of Keno Hill concentrates loaded at Skagway, 234 tons from Tulsequah, 105 tons from Stewart and 67 tons from Alice Arm. Also on board were a tractor and truck and 250 cylinders picked up at Anyox where dismantling of the old smelter plant is going on.

On the way from here to Vancouver, the Cassiar is calling at Klemtu to load 3500 cases of salmon, at Ocean Falls for 250 tons of paper to take to Powell River, and at Port Alice on the west coast of Vancouver Island to load pulp.

Gloves contenders.

The doors of the club, Joe assured, are now open to any others who wish to fight under the banner of the Elks Boxing Club.

Trainer Ward will also contact Vancouver, New Westminster, Chilliwack and other boxing centres in an attempt to arrange "at least a card every month."

The new sponsors will provide robes and boxing shoes. Training will continue at the Civic Centre. Interest in the boxing club, the sponsors say, was sparked by the sensational win of Morrison and Marshall in this year's Golden Gloves tournament.
