BOTTOM'S UP!

Remember the ostrich? He's the unwise old bird who ducks his head into the nearest hole when he senses trouble coming up, and hopes it will blow over.

We hope that the citizens of Prince Rupert will not do an "ostrich act" when the power referendum comes up on December 13th.

Although you will be right in sensing the possibility of power troubles if the referendum sponsors are successful in achieving their questionable ends, you will be dead wrong to duck your head into a "hole" and neglect to vote.

A well-proven method of heading off trouble is to face up to it. This is what we ask you to do when the referendum rolls around.

Right now, we want you to face up to the fact that this referendum has been forced upon you. We want you to recognize the fact that this referendum is a piece of imposition on your minds.

Why you ask? Well, here are just a few reasons:—

- It is untimely. No such question should be put to the citizens of Prince Rupert until they have had the chance to study the findings of the Public Utilities Commission review of our company's operations. The people who are now so anxious to railroad the referendum through, are the same people who demanded the P.U.C. study. Now they want to disregard anything the P.U.C. may have to say, in favor of their ill-considered arguments.
It is not a fair question that is being put to the voters, because it pre-supposes that they no longer want to do business with our company.
The referendum directs the people to subscribe to something they know nothing about. After all, you don't subscribe to a magazine without a guarantee that you will receive it at a pre-determined price, and at a pre-determined time. So how can you justifiably subscribe to such an important agreement as that involving your future power supply, without any guarantee of how much it will cost you, or in what quantity or when you will get it?

Erase from your mind for a moment the "gobbledegook" voiced on the power question by the referendum's sponsors, and give the above points thorough consideration.

Then go to the polls on December 13th prepared to vote "NO" on the referendum.
