PHOTOGRAPHY—

How Weather Good For All Planned Pictures

That winter is here in Prince Rupert is clear to most people perhaps frown at the sight of snow on this coast. But some see also the scenic beauties that suddenly stand out in a blanket of white. And those interested in snapping a picture now and then, snow scenes present perfect subjects.

One does not need to travel far to get a bright, prize-winning picture. On the way to the office in the morning—or from the office in the evening—one may see a corner or lane suddenly changing under a spotless covering. If shots like these are snapped in advance, one will find trouble in looking for subjects.

One happens to be in the city, so much the better. Usually a new snowfall will stay long undisturbed there and snow-laden trees and hills become a photographer's meat.

There are one or two things, though, to remember. Snow pictures, unless taken in sunlight, will be drab and flat, so film should not be wasted on dull overcast days. Shadows are essential in pictures of high contrast.

In sunlight, however, a few things should be considered. If possible, use a lens-hood when shooting in sunlight. It will minimize the chances of glare and fogging and dark rings sometimes seen on negatives.

Work among criminals in the jails was shown in a few scenes taken inside a jail, both men and women.

Final phases of the film were of work among the aged. Sunset Lodges they call them.

President Bruce Brown of the club thanked Capt. W. C. Poulton for bringing the film. Manager Harry Black of the Capitol for allowing use of the theatre for the showing and Sgt. Potterton for operating the projector.

ANCIENT CUSTOM
KBY, England — An ancient New Year custom was shown in this Lincolnshire village. A donkey was taken into a local pub and customers ordered the "noble steed"—sitting on its back. The animal behaved

OPERATING THEATRE—One of several operating theatres in the new Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, this one embodies all the latest features, including provision for televising operations and a gallery for internes and students. The entire room is constructed to eliminate danger from static electricity and all switches included are spark-proof. Oxygen and compressed air are piped into the room from a central supply. Equipment used is the most modern available and many features of the room are being used for the first time. The group shown in this photo are demonstrating operating technique. The hospital will be opened Jan. 15 and the public will be able to tour the building the entire week. (CP PHOTO)

To Scatter Ashes At Sea

Marine Committal For Jonathan Davidson, Pioneer City Boy and Well Known Fisherman
Ashes of Jonathan Davidson.

Icelandic-born salmon fisherman of many years' standing in this district, who came to Prince Rupert as a young boy in the early days and attended school here, will be scattered to the sea tomorrow afternoon at the mouth of the Skeena, which he knew and loved so well. He passed away last month in Vancouver where he had been taken for treatment after spending some time in hospital here. Cremation took place in Vancouver and the ashes brought here.

A memorial service in the chapel of the B.C. Undertakers, with Rev. Canon Basil S. Procter, of St. Andrew's Cathedral, officiating, will precede the marine committal ceremony from a boat which is being provided by the Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-operative Association for the occasion.

Mr. Davidson was born in Rejkavik, Iceland, in 1902. His father, T. J. Davidson, was a professional photographer here in 1909 and for a few years after that until the family moved to Osland on Smith Island. In more recent years the family moved to Cordova Bay, Victoria, where deceased's parents recently celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary.

Deceased, however, remained in the north throughout the years and operated as a gill-netter from various canneries. For the past two years until his final illness he had fished with his boat, Ray Venn, out of Prince Rupert for the Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-operative Association and had made his home here.

Besides his parents in Victoria, Mr. Davidson is survived by his widow, Sarah, and one son, Ray. There are also three stepsons and three stepdaughters. Sisters are Mrs. E. Peters of Victoria, Mrs. J. C. Burgess of Salt Lake City and Mrs. J. Devlin of Powell River. There is one brother, Thor Davidson of Vancouver. Another brother, David Davidson, was drowned several years ago from a fishing boat in the Gulf of Georgia between Powell River and Vancouver.

Organizing For Disaster Here

Stan Saville Elected Red Cross President Last Night

Stan Saville was elected president of Prince Rupert branch, Canadian Red Cross Society, at the annual meeting last night. Other officers are:

Honorary president—Bishop J. B. Gibson.
Honorary vice-president—Mrs. Nora Arnold.
Vice-president — Hawthorne Graham.

Secretary—Norman Darling.
Treasurer—T. Norton Youngs.

Executive committee—H. D. Thain, F. E. Anfield, Mrs. C. H. Elkins, Mrs. J. A. Smith, Don Forward, Mrs. O. L. Murray.

For the disaster committee H. T. Thain said the post had been thrown on him at his busiest season and he had done very little work on it. However, he reported the city council was wholeheartedly behind the disaster committee and that utilities chiefs were prepared to work with the committee. He had assurance other key personnel would work with them. It was reported by other people at the meeting that city nurses had been organized and that Mrs. G. S. Reade had volunteered to take charge of evacuation of children in case of emergency.

Retiring Treasurer Stan Saville reported that over $4000 had been turned in to the main treasury. Expenses during the year had been $12.03. The treasurer's report was approved and adopted with thanks. In accepting the vote of thanks, Mr. Saville said it was the canvassers who should get the credit for the work they had done.

The president, vice-president and treasurer or any two were authorized to sign checks. The president was elected delegate to the provincial convention.

Interpreter Is Scholarly Poet

TORONTO — Walter Uwanluk, 35-year-old poet and scholar, is the new Polish interpreter in Toronto Magistrate's courts.

A graduate in economics of the University of Warsaw, Uwanluk speaks five languages, Polish, French, German, Ukrainian and Russian. And he can make himself understood in Spanish if necessary.

His other interests range from collecting rare first editions to athletics, and he was once honored by a Polish literary review as that country's young "Poet of the Year."

He was born in the town of Chelm in Poland, and after graduation entered the diplomatic service studying tropical agriculture. He was at a research station in Argentina when the second world war broke out.

He returned to Europe and joined the Free Polish forces in France. He participated in the abortive raid on Narvik in Norway in 1940 and later that year was travelling to Gibraltar when his boat was intercepted by Spanish patrols and he was interned.

Uwanluk says he was released in 1943, rejoined Polish forces and participated in the Allied invasion of Europe. During occupation duty in Germany he won corps awards in the sprints and pavlov throw.

He came to Canada in 1948 and lived for a while in Edmonton before coming here. He now contributes to the Polish Literary News published weekly in London, and to Culture, a Polish-language monthly printed in New York.

Ceremony Impressive

Eight small children dressed in pyjamas and night gowns and carrying candles exemplified the "nine o'clock ceremony" during the initiation of a new member into the Women of the Moose at their regular meeting Wednesday night. During the Mooseheart prayer the children knelt at the altar. The program was arranged by the child care committee, Mrs. E. Lugain chairman.

Mrs. F. Parlette was in the chair at the meeting at which one new member and one transfer were accepted. Mrs. B. J. Bacon won the raffle. Mrs. J. Bond won the lucky box drawing.

Mrs. Charles Collins was elected convener of the spring bazaar, which will be held April 20. Standing committees in charge of individual tables hope to make the bazaar an outstanding success.

The hospital guild is holding a tea January 25 to raise money to buy material for their novelty table. They expect a good attendance at the affair at the home of Mrs. A. Ritchie.

Delicious refreshments were served after the meeting.

Menstrual Pains...use PARADOL

BRIGHTON, England — A new purchase system has been started by vegetable dealers here. For the price of one shilling (15 cents) a week, customers can buy at cost price. One store adopting the scheme already has 350 customers paying their weekly shilling. The owner, G. Colbran, says: "We are doing even better than before. New customers are coming in steadily. In a working class district, people really do appreciate something that helps to bring the prices down."

WRONG LABEL
GREAT DEER, Sask. — Mrs. Dubowski was getting the meal ready and opened a can marked "Pork and Beans." It had to be used for dessert, for the can contained pears.
