Should Probe and Punish Offenders.

If it is true, as D. D. McKenzie charges, that beans supplied to the soldiers by a Canadian firm were bad and that there were quantities of stones in the pork and beans that were sent overseas, there should be some law that would punish those who were guilty of the offense. At any rate an inquiry should be held and the offending firm given all the odium that comes from publicity.

The fact that the goods were supplied to the British Government and not to the Canadian Government should make the authorities all the more keen on upholding the honor of the country.

Cultivate the Prince Rupert Spirit.

At the time of the big Seattle fair some years ago the merchants there sold a little non-collapsible doll to visitors which they called "The Seattle Spirit" because it would not down. In Prince Rupert we are beginning to cultivate a Prince Rupert Spirit. It is showing itself in various ways, and the more it spreads the better it will be for the town. The spirit of civic pride, the desire to build on a sure and sane foundation, the desire to co-operate even with those whom personally we do not like; these are manifestations of the Prince Rupert spirit which will weld the community into a united whole and bring success.

Summer is Past and Autumn Here.

Summer is past and there is that tang in the air which makes for better work, for achievement. It is the fall of the year, but it is the rising time in the matter of doings. People walk with brisker step. They greet each other with a tone that indicates something doing.

These are the days when people get an opportunity for study. There are long evenings, steadily lengthening for more than two months yet, and the young man who is wise will employ himself in some course of improvement. It is not enough to read popular magazines. A regular course of study for a set purpose is the way to improve.

Churches will now be arranging for the winter work of their societies. They will try to amuse and instruct. People today are hungry for information on matters pertaining to life. They read books on religion, on science, and on technical work, as well as articles on philosophy. It is a pity that in Prince Rupert we have not been able to provide to any extent for those who wish to do this.

We need a public library. It is one of the outstanding needs of the city. In the big cities today it is the experience of librarians that people are wanting to know. The city authorities are the ones who should provide for the satisfying of that want.

Welding People into a United Whole.

Some figures published yesterday showed that there were an immense number of people of other than British origin living in this country. In that respect we resemble the United States. We are a mixed people and the work of the present generation will be to unite them.

By giving us a say in the Peace Conference we have been recognized as a nation. Now the work comes of uniting that nation and making it a good working unit. It will come chiefly by education. Children who are educated in the public schools grow up Canadians almost invariably. They have a national spirit. The teachers are largely responsible for that. The extent to which they realize their responsibility in this matter will gauge the success they will have and the benefit the nation will reap.
