How Victory Bonds are Made
Canada's Premier
Security.

Victory Bonds are the real gilt edged securities. Behind even the smallest of bonds stands all the wealth of Canada. The very first obligation of every person in the country is to pay taxes; and the first job of taxes is to pay interest and meet these bonds at maturity.

As security for Victory Bonds there stands a national wealth that two years ago was estimated at $19,002,788,125 and today must be greater. The average wealth per capita is $2,637.

To keep right on with figures: on June 30 last the net national debt was $1,616,871,175. When this is deducted from assets an equity of over $17,000,000,000 remains. National debt has security about twelve times greater than itself. Compare this with the proportion of security on a first mortgage, considered one of our highest grade investments.

But in an estimate of this kind we must not overlook provincial debts. They are, according to latest figures, $169,559,959. And then consider Municipal debts, which can only be estimated and which probably run $880,000,000. Add all our public debts together and we have $2,666,431,134. Deduct them from the wealth of the country and we still have a safety margin of $16,336,568,994.

"That seems a pretty good equity—over sixteen billions," says Mr. Careful Investor, who is used to inquiring cautiously into the security behind mortgages and bonds. I know that high class bonds of industrial corporations and top notch property mortgages often run 50 per cent of assets, but you must not overlook those same private bonds and mortgages against our national wealth. True, but the public debts are a first charge against our wealth, because both principal and interest are secured by plenary taxation powers.

Look at them from any angle, so as deeply as you like into all the financial intricacies that the business mind can bring up, and you discover that there is no better investment in the world than a Canadian Victory Bond. They pay a highly satisfactory interest return, and they can be disposed of at any time on quick notice. Victory bond quotations show all classes of these bonds selling above par.

Sport Briefs

Now that the world's series is over local sports will have to look locally for their sensations. With the basketball prospects looking well there ought to be some good engagements to take their attention till the great winter sport—Pacific coast hockey—gets started. Perhaps we might have some good hockey in town if the weather is favorable like it was in 1916.

With Chicago having to change her pitchers twice in the last game of the big series it looks as if the Sox must have been "up in the air" completely. It was completely a fielder's game, with 25 hits and then the fielding couldn't have been anything extra with 15 runs. A regular Aurora Borealis League game with races around the base lines.

"Bombadier" Wells is again out for the world's championship, according to an announcement made in London recently.

"FAITH" AT EMPRESS, LOVE AT WESTHOLME

Bert Lytell in Fine Story at the Smaller House; Griffith Production at Larger.

"Faith" with Bert Lytell in the leading part at the Empress is a dramatic play of great interest and power. The story concerns the regeneration of a young man through the faith of two women. It possesses every element of human appeal.

At the Westholme is a Griffiths picture, "A Romance of Happy Valley," which is said to be first rate. Also there is one of the outling pictures that appeal so strongly to Prince Rupert audiences.
