THE ELECTIONS

The municipal election yesterday was an interesting one, the majority for C. H. Orme being larger than even the most optimistic of his supporters anticipated. Labor, too, received very strong support, not so much because they were labor men as because they were well known for their ability, energy and fairmindedness.

The new mayor comes to his work under very favorable auspices and we believe he should do excellent work for the city. He has all the qualities which should make for an efficient executive.

The aldermen are all well known in the city and chosen doubtless because of that fact over men who were not so well known, except in one or two cases.

The people of the city are to be congratulated on the fact that they have a representative group of men handling their affairs this year at a time when careful handling of civic finances is necessary.

Success is simply the attainment of another rung on the ladder of life. There are other rungs above.

THE PAST REGIME

The people through their votes have decided that the past council which was so severely criticized was quite satisfactory to them. Not only the new mayor, but the two men who received the highest number of votes in each section of the aldermanic contest were members of the last council and one of them a member of the Board of Works.

Mayor McMordie did excellent work in negotiating and bringing through to a practical solution the sale of the power plant to the Power Corporation. Had he lost his head at the beginning when the first offer was made, he would have lost the city a large sum. There were many who urged that the offer be taken, but he held fast for what he considered to be a fair price and he got it. In our opinion, Mayor McMordie has never received anything like the amount of credit that is coming to him for that work.

Colonel McMordie served for two years. At the end of that time he was criticized, as all mayors have been at such a time. He was publicly arraigned from the platform, but the electors did not take the arraignment seriously and returned a council that will carry on his work, at the same time voting down his critics. What more can be said. He retires from office with the confidence of the people.

Men who express ideas are always liable to be misunderstood.

NOW FOR THE FUTURE

Now as to the future it is difficult to make prophecies but we believe the present year will be a prosperous one. There should not be anything in the nature of a boom, but there should be decidedly better times before the year is over. All the indications point that way. Among other things, there should be considerable building this year and that is always an indication of prosperity. It should be the beginning of a forward movement which in the next few years will change the city to such an extent that the council of today would hardly know the city as it will appear in 1935. We have waited long and patiently and now it looks as if the reward would come before very long.

MAYOR ELECT A YOUNG MAN

C. H. Orme Was Born in Ontario Forty-Four Years Ago and Has Spent Half of His Life Here

SUCCESSFUL BUSINESSMAN

Came to Prince Rupert in 1908 and Started His Drug Store in a Tent

Cyril H. Orme, mayor-elect, is one of the youngest, if not the youngest man upon whom the citizens of Prince Rupert have bestowed the mantle of the chief magistracy. He is forty-four years of age.

Mr. Orme was born in Ontario, which province has already provided Prince Rupert with several of her mayors. His birthplace was Lucan in Middlesex County.

The mayor-elect received his school education at Lucan and took his apprenticeship as a druggist in the nearby city of London. Having completed his apprenticeship, he came west in 1907 and for one year was employed in Vancouver. At the age of 23 he came north to Prince Rupert on August 4, 1908, and established in a tent on old Centre Street his drug store which has since become one of the most successful businesses in the city. Due no doubt, to the well known geniality and wide popularity of its proprietor.

In addition to having served as an alderman last year, Mr. Orme has ever since coming to Prince Rupert taken a great interest in public affairs. His service to the public has included the presidency of the Board of Trade and Fair Board and chairmanship of the board of school trustees.

The fact that Mr. Orme has always been a prominent Conservative has not prevented him from being equally popular with most of the people of other political shades. It is an open secret that Mr. Orme could have had for the bidding any political honor in the gift of the Conservatives not only of Prince Rupert but of Northern British Columbia. Mr. Orme was married in Prince Rupert and his wife is well known and popular in society circles here. There are four children—three boys and one girl. The family is at present in residence for a year in Victoria for the benefit of Mrs. Orme's health.

MAYOR IS SATISFIED

Expressed Keen Gratification at Result of Election in Interview

Mayor S. P. McMordie expressed keen satisfaction at the result of the civic election yesterday when an interview was sought of him by the Daily News this morning. "Naturally enough," said His Worship, "the complete vindication that was given by the voters to the 1929 council from charges that were made during the campaign is a matter of great gratification to me. The splendid majority given Ex-Ald. Orme in the mayorality contest, the fact that Ald. Rutherford and Ald. Collart, members of the 1929 council who sought re-election, headed the aldermanic polls, and the successful passage of the money bylaws were all very pleasing."

The mayor had a kind word to say for the defeated mayorality candidates. "While I did not agree with many of their views," he said, "I realize that Ald. Prudhomme and Ex-Mayor Newton made their criticisms in the campaign conscientiously and, in their own minds, for the best interests of the city."

"Now that the campaign is over, I hope all may unite in backing everything that may be undertaken for the welfare of the city and that the services of good men who may have been defeated will not be entirely lost to the new administration."

"I think that Prince Rupert has elected a council for 1930 to which the affairs of the city may be left for administration with confidence. Particularly do I say this in the cases of the new men—Mr. Pillsbury, Mr. Black and Mr. Pullen. The ability of the others has, of course, been proven and endorsed by the electors."

Word Received Here of Death in Portland of Founder of Local Lutheran Church

Word has been received in the city of the death last week in Portland, Oregon, at the age of 87 years, of Rev. J. A. Levin, who established the old Swedish Lutheran Church in Prince Rupert in 1910 and ministered to the congregation until 1917, when he left this city.

Born in Kottingen, Skane, Sweden, the late Mr. Levin entered the ministry in 1904 and, before coming to Prince Rupert, had spent some time in the Yukon Territory. Since leaving here he had continued his ministerial work in Washington and Oregon until a short time before his demise. His wife predeceased him but he is survived by a daughter living in Portland.

William Bailie Sutherland, aged about 35, and a well-known former resident of Prince Rupert from the early days, died suddenly at Port Alice on Tuesday night on the eve of leaving for this city to visit with his uncle, George Sutherland, McBride Street. Heart failure was the cause of his demise.

The late Mr. Sutherland followed the occupation of a gasboat engineer here. He was located for a time at Swanson Bay before leaving for Port Alice several years ago. At Port Alice he was an engineer aboard the tugboat Burnaby. He was born in Glasgow, Scotland.

The remains are to be brought to Prince Rupert within the next few days for burial. The funeral will be in charge of Tsimpsean Lodge, A.F. & A.M., of which deceased was a member.

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Miss Estelle Magee of Saint John, N.B., was perhaps as happy as any woman in the city of Boston. She was busy buying her trousseau and attending to all the little incidentals to getting married. Newsboys cry extra, however, soon dispelled her happiness. It was from this source that she first learned of the death of her fiancé, Arthur A. McGill, killed with four others in the tragic aeroplane accident at Bolling Field, Washington.

McGill, a former resident of Brookline, Mass., was prominent in Republican national affairs and was living in Washington while engaged in diplomatic work for the state department. He met Miss Magee last summer at a vacation camp near Saint John. A warm friendship followed, culminating in an announcement of their engagement.

Miss Magee, who is a trained nurse, spends her summers in Brunswick and her winters in Hingham, Mass. She was attending a reception and shower in honor at the home of a friend in Hingham, when she received a telegram from McGill stating that he had delayed his departure from Washington a day in order to travel to Massachusetts by aeroplane with some friends. After reading the telegram she remarked: "I wish Arthur wouldn't come back by plane. I ought to send him a wire and tell him not to risk the trip."

The following day she came into Boston to finish her shopping, planning to meet her fiancé later that evening and go to the theatre with him. It was while she was in the city that she learned of his death.
