Bad Loading of Prince Rupert Ballantyne Pier

The C. N. R. ss. Prince Rupert arrived in port this morning from the south at 1 p.m. Officers report that the damage done to the new piers at Vancouver was terrible. The Prince Rupert docked at Ballantyne Pier.

Loading of the Prince Rupert was also much interfered with owing to lack of elevator accommodation at the Ballantyne. However, they were able to use both hatches by bringing part of the load alongside in a scow and then transferring it by a crane on the wharf through the side of the boat where the cargo is ordinarily loaded by the elevator.

Japan to Share Nitrate Trade

TOKIO, Aug. 13.—Japan is negotiating with the government of Chile to obtain a concession in a specified location for the production of Chilean nitrates, and it is probable that if the deal goes through Japanese interests will obtain an important share in the control of this vast industry.

According to Matsumoto Kitada, first secretary of the Japanese legation in Chile and son-in-law of Premier Hamaguchi, the negotiations are progressing favorably. He believes that the scheme will result in large development of Japanese agriculture as a large part of the export nitrate is to be brought to this country for distribution among farmers. 70 PEDRONS

INITIAL RIDE IN AIRPLANE NOT PLEASANT

Indian From Far North Reaches Edmonton After Being Shot in Thigh By Companion

EDMONTON, Aug. 13.—Marveling at the works of the white man even as he moans with the agony from a serious gunshot wound in his thigh, Joseph Fish Bagbone, Yellowknife Indian and victim of a shooting accident of a week ago, reached the General Hospital here after a sensational trip from the farthest reaches of Great Slave Lake. Canoe, aeroplane and motor ambulance played a part in bringing him here to receive medical care.

With a companion, Bagbone left his Yellowknife home a week ago to go in search of a moose, so it is understood here, for the man speaks no English and it is practically impossible to obtain full details. The pair became separated in the bush and the companion, mistaking Bagbone for a moose, fired three shots at him. One of the bullets took effect in Bagbone's thigh, fracturing the bone and leaving a dangerous wound.

Wound Is Treated Such first aid as could be rendered was given and the man was placed in a canoe for the crossing of Great Slave Lake to Fort Resolution. Details of the journey cannot be learned, but it must have been one of excruciating agony for Bagbone.

At last the canoe reached Resolution, where Dr. Bourget dressed Bagbone's wound and applied splints to the limb before placing the Indian aboard a Commercial Airways monoplane piloted by I. Glyn Roberts.

Leaving Resolution at 2:15 p.m., the machine reached the South Cooking Lake air base at 7:30 p.m., near record time being made during the dash.

The injured man was conveyed in a city ambulance to the General Hospital.
