Plane Greater St. Louis Broke All Records for A Sustained Flight

Plane Has Been In Air Over Three Weeks and This Morning It Rained and Thunder Storm Was Threatening

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13:-Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien in the monoplane Greater St. Louis flew through the rain and the threat of a thunder storm today to a new world's sustained flight record.

The flyers regained the record this morning when in the air 554 hours, 41 minutes, slightly more than 23 days, thus passing the record made by the Hunter brothers.

The plane was refuelled at intervals since the time she took off three weeks ago.

LIMIT SET ON CATCHES:

Additional Close Season Also Set By Department

In order to enable them to cope adequately with the salmon run, a + limit of 200 pinks a day has been set for gill-netters by some of the unusually strong in the Skeena and MASSETT. so far there is no sign of slackening

The allotment of gill-netters on the Skeena was set at 1100 but in view of the fact that there are more than that number now operating there, there will be an additional close season this week of 12 hours. The close season this week-end will therefore begin at 6 a.m. Friday instead of 6 p.m.

The canneries have also set a limit of 5,000 for seine boats in certain areas to enable the cannery staffs to keep up with the canning and packing.

Langara Island is the northermost point of the Queen Charlotte group and is often referred to by fishermen as North Island. Triple Island is a rock 25 miles eastward at

The stations differ from those at the entrance to the Straits of Juan de Fuca in that at Tatoosh and Pade Fuca in that at Tatoosh and Pachena the position of the ship is worked out ashore and communicated to the ship but in this case each ship must work out its own position, either through the use of radio compasses or direction finding apparatus.

Automatic signals will be given out hourly, the time being controlled by a time clock at the stations. The vital parts of the apparatus are in duplicate including the motors. The Langara call is VGP on a wave length of 1034 metres and at Triple Island it is VGN on a 968 metre wave. These are within the special band set aside by the radio commission for radio finding work. Installation of the apparatus was simplified by the fact that there are lights and fog alarms at each of the stations with two lighthouse
