FINAL WORD BEFORE ELECTION

On Monday Prince Rupert people will be going to the polls to choose for a member either J. C. Brady, who was the member for the last term or Olof Hanson, the Liberal standard bearer, who also has been doing useful work at Ottawa at his own expense.

The issues have been pretty well thrashed out. Brady is appealing for return on a high tariff policy, a tariff levied against all the world. The Liberals have already levied a high tariff against United States and other countries that have tariffs against us, but have lowered it against Great Britain and other parts of the British Empire. This is the imperial preference policy designed to build up an inter-empire trade, such as will be discussed at the Imperial Conference in the fall.

Mr. Brady is a fluent speaker. Mr. Hanson is not a particularly fluent speaker but he is a businessman who has a habit of getting what he goes after. One is a schoolmaster and the other is a man who has made his way in the business world overcoming great obstacles.

Neither of the men are of Canadian birth. Mr. Brady if elected will go to Ottawa to line up with the Conservative opposition under Mr. Bennett, while Olof Hanson will be a supporter of the Mackenzie King Government and as such will have the ear of the government much more effectively than if he were in opposition.

We suggest that voters shall forget their personal preferences and vote for the man whom they think can best benefit Prince Rupert.

Powell River Contractors Got Steel From England Instead of United States Under New Treaty

VANCOUVER, July 26:—Within the past two or three days, the Dominion Bridge Co., contractor on the construction of the giant penstocks for the Powell River Co.'s new pulp and paper plant, has ordered from England 2500 tons of steel, H. S. Wood K. C. stated at a meeting in North Vancouver on behalf of A. E. Munn, Liberal candidate running against Major General A. D. McRae.

"It is the first time that such an order has ever gone to England," Mr. Wood said. "Hitherto steel penstocks for every paper mill in Canada have been made in Pittsburgh. This order was placed in England because the Dunning budget made it cheaper to buy the steel there than in the United States. This is a class of material which is not manufactured in Canada."

DEMOCRATIC IDEA

Editor Daily News:

We as a democratic people have to think carefully on the 28 July as to how we cast our vote. I hope every mother and sister will think carefully before they cast their vote towards the member that will assist in trying to bring about and develop the industries of wealth of this large Dominion that we are fortunate enough to be able to vote in. The world today is traveling at a tremendous pace, circling the sun at the same time, accompanying the moon on an independent trip of their own. But we as a people travel slowly along our destined course of progress. It took men hundreds of years of struggle to reach the point where men as a whole were permitted to govern their own countries. Longed still for women to be recognized as persons and allowed a vote and a voice in the management of our country. Therefore as a mother I plead for every mother to vote for the government that is to keep home industries growing to be able to employ our sons and daughters without having to send them into a foreign land as the cream of our men and women are doing today. All Canadian British subjects on that day will stand on an equality with the most heavily money burdened millionaire. All have just one vote to cast that represents our interests in the governing body at Ottawa.

Signed A MOTHER.

ing the boys at home. Electors are now asked to decide from past record and calibre of the men and policy of the party which will do that best.—Editor.)

Federal Election Campaign Is Converging

Smineca, will be the speakers. Mr. Manson arrived in the city today by train after a thorough tour of the central interior on behalf of Mr. Hanson. He is responsible for the statement that the central interior part of the riding may be expected to turn in a Liberal majority of about 500 on Monday.

The Conservatives have taken the Moose Hall for their closing meeting. Ex-Mayor T. S. Baxter, who has been doing some effective campaigning in the north during the past two or three weeks, and James C. Brady, Conservative candidate, will be the speakers. It was originally intended to have had Senator Gideon Robertson at this meeting but the party management felt that he was more badly needed at Smithers so they sent him straight through there yesterday to make a final plea for support of his party in that Liberal stronghold. A good many people were looking forward to hearing Senator Robertson and are disappointed that he is not going to be here. This may affect the size of the attendance at the Conservative meeting.

As the speaking campaign is about to close, arrangements are being rapidly closed for the holding of the vote on Monday. There will be seven different polling stations in the city and the poll will be from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. The dividing up of the city into this series of small polls will facilitate the counting of the ballots and the result will be known much sooner than would have been the case had there been but one central polling station. A number of fishermen and others have been taking advantage of the advance poll arrangement to cast their ballots.

Considerable money will change hands Monday night after the results of the fight in Skeena become known. Betting interests of the city have been busy, particularly during the past week, and some heavy wagers have been posted. Betting money has been free on either side and the odds in practically all cases have been even. Odds have been given in favor of the return of the Mackenzie King government to power. Money has not been so free in betting that the Conservatives will come into power although a few wagers along this line are reported.

E. E. Gregg, assistant district forester, returned to the city on yesterday's train from a trip to the interior on official business.

Mrs. Jack Preece, who has been spending the past two weeks in Smithers, returned to the city from the interior on yesterday's train.

Inspiring Address By H. G. Fowler

seen steady increase in population, industries and payrolls, increase in shipping facilities, both rail and water, increase in value of agricultural products and electric power and development.

Wonderful Potentialities

"We have looked back at the past. Now let us look at the future. We find British Columbia has the largest stand of softwood timber of any province or state on the North American continent. As a comparison of the growth in that industry, 14,000,000 board feet was exported in 1918 and 831,000,000 board feet in 1929.

"We find natural mineral resources being produced worth over $60,000,000 a year.

"We find the fishing industry producing $24,000,000 a year.

"We find a great agricultural body building up and producing last year $63,000,000 with less than 30% of the farm land occupied.

"We find the general climate of B. C. unsurpassed.

"We find a scenic beauty that is drawing in millions of revenue from tourists each year.

"Five railroad lines entering British Columbia with the shortest connecting shipping lines to the Orient—an Orient with 300,000,000 people, who when once awakened to their potentialities should take millions of dollars of exports from Canada.

"We find we have thousands of undeveloped hydro-electric power, a great incentive for industrial development.

"We find we have abundance of room for that industrial growth.

"We find money pouring into British Columbia from U. S., England and Eastern Canada.

"And last we find we have a population of 1.6 persons per square mile. And as a comparison U.S. has 2.3 and England 7.01. One has only to visualize those figures to appreciate the possibilities.

"B. C. Forbes, after a survey of British Columbia states: "British Columbia has a limitless future and you can thank your lucky stars you are living in British Columbia.

"British Columbia's progress and prosperity go hand in hand with payrolls and her strength depends on her payrolls. In 1925 she had $150,000,000 payroll and in 1929, $183,000,000. In 1921 she had 1047 industrial firms, in 1929, 4,846. The value of the total production of all B. C. in 1929 was $433,000,000 and this production had a greater diversification than any province in Canada. Agriculture representing 13.5%, forestry 26%, mining 20.6%, manufacturing 16.9%, and fishing 7.9%.

Discard Blue Glasses

"What we need now is the discarding of blue glasses, a ban on pessimism and a premium on optimism.

"There is a sentiment growing rapidly in British Columbia, growing rapidly and permeating the social structure and getting into the life-blood of B. C. industries, boosting B. C. payrolls and keeping B. C. dollars at home. That sentiment is a sentiment of buying B. C. products manufactured by B. C. payrolls.

"Never has there been a keener interest shown by boards of trade, business leaders, service clubs and women's institutes in this sentiment.

Work of Bureau

"In 1929 the B. C. Products bureau turned back orders to British Columbia that had actually been placed or were about to be placed outside to the amount of $485,000. Some of the activities of the B. C. Products bureau include keeping one thousand tons of foreign cement out of British Columbia highways, increasing the sale of tile and brick against foreign competition, and helping the tobacco industry to merchandise. Now there are 2,000 acres of tobacco planted, marketed 2,000 pounds per week this year against nothing in 1929.

"In 1929 the importations into British Columbia of dried and prepared fruit and vegetables and jellies was $1,651,000, which is altogether too much and is not giving the B. C. farmer a square deal.

"The B. C. Products bureau is always ready to help in the sale of B. C. Products against outside competition.

"Forbes Moody, Babson, Colonel Leonard Ayres, and some of the best economic writers and business leaders agree that the worst of the depression is back of us. With this in mind the outlook for the future of British Columbia is indeed bright."

Liberals Claim 141 Seats in Federal Election Monday

eral trend indicates that the Liberal party will take 141 ridings. The Conservatives, Independent Progressives and other groups represented by 102. Some doubt as to the issue surrounds two constituencies—one in Manitoba and the other in British Columbia. The Liberals concede a 50-50 chance to the opposition in these divisions.

"The Conservatives are conceded 85 seats adhering to main groups. In view of the fact that the independent parties in the House of Commons and also in opposition to the Conservatives and in matters of vital concern usually swing to the Liberal side, the prospects are for a continuance of the same favorable situation as existed from 1928 onward.

Have Made No Case

"In the constituencies the opinion among the electorate is that the Conservatives have not made out a case to justify rejection of the Mackenzie King Government. Misrepresentation and personal abuse interspersed with threats of heavy taxation and high tariffs have failed to impress the Canadian voters. Promises of public works, costing the outrageous sum of one billion dollars to be raised from taxes, have not made the electors any more friendly towards the Conservative party.

"Five Conservative provincial premiers took a vacation from their duties in an effort to pitchfork Mr. Bennett into office. As too many cooks spoil the broth, the activities of this faithful quintette have hampered, rather than helped, the Conservative cause.

"The election campaign has run its full course of nearly two months and from the beginning the Conservatives smothered the country with a discordant array of "blue ruin." History thus repeated itself, inasmuch as this dismal slogan coupled with "whispers of death" was the chief opposition dirge in 1925 and 1926. Indications are that Canada will show its resentment of this mournful chorus more emphatically Monday than in these two previous elections. As the Conservative Winnipeg Tribune says: "It is of course a fact that various Conservative speakers have exaggerated the unemployment problem."

The boom conditions of the Maritime Provinces will result on Monday in a representation of not less than 17 Liberals from that region. Conservative hopes of gains in Quebec have been completely neutralized by bitter feuds within the party itself, quarrels that have enticed it to such an extent as to make cohesion impossible. Quebec will return 61 members for the government. Liberal gains in Ontario will out-balance losses, and that province will increase its Liberal membership to at least 32 with a possibility of 36. On the prairies the Liberal party will secure a minimum of 26 seats and in British Columbia five.

Security For People

"With such a sure majority, the Canadian people may feel comforted in the assurance of stability in government for a further period of four years."
