

Building Roads In Turkey Today Costs $60,000,000

ANGORA Turkey, Jan. 6.—Mustapha Kemal, who has carried his people to dizzy heights of religious, political, social and cultural revolutions, with one of his famous sleights-of-hand is bringing them down to earth, and is bidding them work the earth for a solid fifteen years to come.

Everybody in Turkey who has resided in the country for six months must do their bit on the building of a great network of roads, the project for which has just emerged full-bloom from the waves of Kemalist reform.

The new road law provides for 5000 miles of highways in Asiatic Turkey, and for the renovation of the existing 8000 miles of state roads, most of which are little more than miserable dirt trails. Within the whole land there are at present scarcely a dozen miles of asphalt or concrete.

But the best of roads are to spread over Anatolia to the tune of $60,000,000 within the next fifteen years.

Under the new law everybody in Turkey between the ages of 18 and 60, except embassy and consular officials, invalids, students, soldiers, and fathers of five living children, will be drafted for road service. Yearly for ten consecutive days, the Turkish equivalents of the colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady and their respective husbands must break stones and shovel dirt, or pay an exemption tax of $4.

The new 5000 miles of highways will link Angora to Constantinople by a fast speedway. Angora to Sivas, Erzeroum and Karaman to the Russian frontier; Angora to the Persian frontier by a branch road from Erzeroum; Angora to the frontier by Iraq by a branch road from Sivas, and Angora to the Syrian frontier via Smyrna, Konia and Adana.

The $60,000,000 required for construction will be met by revenues from the state monopolies on alcohol, matches and tobacco, which aggregate some $16,000,000 annually. Any surplus from the general budget of the state also goes to the road fund.

Italy Winning Grain Battle

Mussolini Succeeding In Making Italy Independent of Foreign Countries

ROME, Jan. 6.—Italy is winning "The Battle of Grain." Annually she fights this battle, and once a year she decides who has won the struggle.

"The Battle of Grain," as Mussolini calls it, is the struggle of wheat growers in Italy against foreign farmers. In a nutshell, it is the battle of Benito Mussolini to make Italy independent of the wheat fields in the United States, Argentina, Canada and Australia.

The annual day of reckoning this year yielded these figures: In October, 1929, Italy imported 237,760 hundredweight of grain. In the same month of the preceding year she imported 1,944,753 hundredweight. This is a gain of over 1,700,000 hundredweight. In the four months from July to October, Italy brought in 2,616,720 hundredweight, last year, for same period 1928 she imported 7,072,697. This bettered the trade balance by $30,000,000. Italy hopes that next year she will be completely independent of foreign producers of wheat. This will conclude one phase of her struggle to make herself self-sufficient in the three great raw materials, wheat, coal and steel. She is rapidly becoming independent of coal by developing hydro-electric resources. She will probably never be independent in the case of iron and steel.
