VISITORS PUZZLED

Some of the officers and men of the visiting cruiser are I think you will get the job all having foisted upon it canards over a billion dollars, all over the much puzzled at the local political situation. While they right. are much interested in their own British political situation it is difficult for them to understand the Canadian line-up. By birth and training most of the visitors are people say that Hanson cannot Conservatives but if they had a vote here probably the speak English. We all know differmajority would vote for Hanson because by doing so they ently. I often wonder why people are supporting the new British Empire movement which do not have more respect for the their own party at home backs.
