PRETTY GOOD PRICE

A pretty good price was realized for the Prince Rupert bonds that have been sold by the city. They more than take care of the bank debt inherited from the old council. They indicate that Prince Rupert still has some credit and that when the condition of the money market improves Prince Rupert will be able to proceed with necessary improvements.

BUILD UP BRITISH COLUMBIA

We cannot see how the Government of British Columbia can support any Peace River railway outlet that does not open up a large section of British Columbia in addition to the Peace River block. So far all the railways that have been built have gone into the country from the Alberta side and have developed that province. The result has been that British Columbia has remained stationary insofar as northern development of the interior is con- Crowd Fights In cerned. What is needed now is a railway that will connect Finlay Forks with the coast passing out through the country that lends itself best to the development of tonnage for the line and the permanent settlement of the country.

B. C. UNITY NEEDED

"British Columbia unity is needed," says Hon. Frank Marriage Market Oliver. He means unity for the Monkman Pass route. We. agree that unity is needed but think it should be unity for the Prince Rupert route. Vancouver believes it should be unity for Vancouver. Stewart has an idea it should be Twenty-five Blushing Brides leave pilot. unity for Stewart. There we are. How can there be unity under such conditions? We each must move for our own, and let the railway companies and the governments interested decide.
