BUY LOCAL PRODUCE

A Prince Runpert man who likes to use clams stated to the Daily News that when he rang up his grocer and asked for Queen Charlotte Island clams he was told they did not keep them. Instead of that the grocer stocks Korean clams handled by the Japanese and clams packed in the State of Washington.

Further we are told that the razor clams of Queen Charlottes are far superior to any others in quality, but people know nothing about them because they are not advertised. If the Massett packers would spend a very few dollars in the Prince Rupert newspapers to let the people of the city know that they have this splendid product, doubtless local people would use them. This free advertisement is given them to try to encourage the use of local product. Possibly there are other products of the district that are not used at home. If so, we should like to know about it and will tell about it free of charge.
