ESTEEMED GREATLY

White and Native Populations of Massett Unite to Do Honor to Late E. H. Simpson

MASSETT, Aug. 22:—In the death of the late E. H. Simpson, persident of the Langara Fishing & Packing Co., both native and white residents of the Queen Charlotte Islands feel the loss of one of their leading citizens and staunchest friends who was always ready to lend a helping hand to any and sundry who might need it. Had the Haida tribe of Massett lost one of their greatest chiefs they could not have grieved more than they have done for the late Mr. Simpson who was one of their greatest friends.

The late Mr. Simpson started the crab cannery at Massett in 1920 and the clam cannery in 1923. Both industries have given employment to the people of Massett Inlet all the year around.

Rev. James Gillett, Indian Agent for the Queen Charlotte Islands, who was last year adopted into the Haida nation as Chief Big Eagle, bespoke the sentiments which were felt generally for the late Mr. Simpson when he addressed a memorial service, attended by two hundred whites and Indians, which was held last Saturday afternoon at the Langara cannery, the service being conducted by Rev. C. O. Darby. Mr. Gillett spoke in part as follows:

"On an occasion such as this there are many subjects on which one could speak. We have not met here to hear a sermon but to show our respect for one who has left us, and also to express our sympathy to Mrs. Simpson and Sam, who are bereft of a husband and father.

"In showing our respect to Mr. Simpson, naturally we think of him when alive and what he accomplished. You know that the works that men do live after them. Man's life is short, when compared with the things he does, for oftimes they live and remain long after he is gone. You can see what I mean by thinking of Shakespeare. He died hundreds of years ago, yet his plays still live. I venture to say that, although Mr. Simpson has gone, his works will remain, and that this cannery which was established by his efforts, will continue to be spoken of as Simpson's cannery, for a long time to come. It has meant much for both New and Old Massett, and I know that the Indian people are deeply grieved at Mr. Simpson's passing. You had in Mr. Simpson a man who was interested in your welfare, and his aim was to have some industry going the whole year round, so that you would be continually employed. He worked and planned with this in view. While we are met here to show our respect for Mr. Simpson, I feel sure that we shall often, in the days to come, have him in our minds, as we continually come in contact with the things with which he was associated.

"In expressing sympathy with Mrs. Simpson, I know we have all done this individually, either in thought or action, but we have now met to do it collectively. We feel sorry for her. I have often wondered how people can bear such heavy burdens. There is no doubt to my mind that special strength is given and this comes through the thoughts and minds of others, for there is power in thought. At this hour Mrs. Simpson is going through a gerat trial. Let us pause for a few minutes, and hold the thought, having Mrs. Simpson in mind, 'The Living God is sustaining you.'

"On Monday Mr. Simpson left. On Wednesday a message came which meant that he was not coming back. I think if he could have spoken to you, his parting message would have been, 'Carry on, make the cannery a success.' And to the Indian people he would have said, 'Work in harmony with the new management, in the same manner as you did with me.' By doing this we can show both your respect and your sympathy in a practical way."

Mr. Morris and William Matthews also spoke, expressing their grief at the loss of so great a friend. Rev. Mr. Graham offered prayer and the hymn, "Peace, Perfect Peace" was sung.

A large collection was taken up by the natives for the purpose of sending flowers to the funeral and to erect a monument in his memory.

Holiday Resorts

RAINBOW TROUT

Are plentiful this season in the Stuart Lake district, they take either fly or spoon. In this wide virgin country there are hundreds of miles of waterways in lake and stream with many pleasant bays and wooded isles, unexplored by white men. Now that really good accommodation is provided and modern camping equipment is obtainable, many are taking fishing trips.

Another important attraction there is a ride or hike to the top of Mount Pope, from which a wonderful picture is seen—100 miles of lake and woods in every direction.
