Would Establish Air Route Service Between Canada and Great Britain Before Dr. Eckener Gets His Proposed Service to United States

Sir Denistoun Burney Gives Notable Address to Ottawa Canadian Club With Bennett, King and Governor General Among Those Present

OTTAWA, Aug. 6:-A challenge to Canada to take the next step in putting the British Empire in the forefront of airship transportation through the inauguration of a transatlantic service between Great Britain and Canada before the service between Germany and United States planned by Dr. Hugo Eckener gets under way, was voiced by Sir Denistoun Burney, designer of the dirigible R-100 in an address to the Canadian Club here.

In the presence of Premier-Elect Bennett, Prime Minister Mackenzie King, and Viscount Willingdon, Governor General, the sponsor of the first Great Britain to Canada airship flight asked for the formation of a committee of prominent Canadian businessmen to investigate the situation within the next few days and to decide whether the Canadian government and business interests were prepared to back a transatlantic airship service. AMY GETS With the views of such a committee before him, he would be able to lay a concrete proposition before the British government on his return to London.

Dirigibles for the Great Britain-Canada service would be capable of making 85 miles an hour with 100 passengers and 10 tons of mail, taking two and a half days westward and two days eastward in crossing.

Sir Denistoun promised to provide the committee with all necessary data in regard to such a service.

Federal Government Will Aid In Providing Feed in Parched Sections

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6:- The department of agriculture is investigating the drought conditions with a view to relieving distress where necessary.

President Hoover announced last evening that the Federal Government would co-operate with local authorities in providing feed for stock where it was found that there was none and also in removing stock from sections where there was no feed to others where it might be more abundant.

So far there is no relief from the heat conditions of the past week or two and the whole of the United States is more or less affected by it.

In the State of Washington, where the drought has been felt less than in most parts of the country, there is danger of forest fires and extreme vigilence is being exercised to prevent them.

Canners Feeling Strain of Big Catches of Salmon Coming In Daily Necessitating Long Hours

The canners are beginning to feel the strain of the heavy + purpose of opening the Bri- + run of pinks and sockeye salmon on the Skeena River and other northern waters. So far all the fish have been packed as they arrive but the staffs are tiring of the long days, commencing at daybreak and continuing sometimes until midnight. So great has been the stress that in several cases the canners have had to refrain from sending out their seiners.

The result of the big run, which is almost unprecedented of recent years, is that a large amount of ready cash will Very Promising be liberated in Northern B. C. One result of the big salmon run has been the demand for labor to handle the fish at the different canneries and through the local labor bureau men have been sent to the following places, Balmoral, Claxton, Haysport, Sunnyside, Cassiar, Port Edward and Lowe Inlet.

There has been a fair demand locally for casual labor but at present it is stated that there too, so that there is little unemployment at the moment in
