Large Officer and Small Men

Tuesday night on Third Avenue much to the amusement of passersby. Two small men, one about five feet in height and the other possibly three inches shorter, having imbibed of the wine when it was red, were inclined to become quarrelsome, so much so that police inervention was necessitated. Who should take the matter in hand but Constable G. C. Sharpe, six-foot-six Jack Dempsey of the provincial poice force? The funny scene was when the burly officer grasped one quarrelsome little man in either mighty hand and virtually carried them off like six-year old school kids to the police station.
